THE COMMISSIONERSHIP FIGHT

Was the Closest of the Three, But Carnes Has a Good Safe Majority.
Hanley's Vote for Clerk of Courts Highest of Any.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

Probate Judge—J. A. MARTIN.

Clerk of Courts—JAMES N. HAN-

LEY.

Recorder—CHARLES A. WHITE.

Commissioner—M. P. CARNES.

Infirmary Director—W. A. TARR.

Surveyor—J. CHAS. KELLY.

Coroner—JOHN L. STRAUGHN.

The whole county, except a very few precincts, took a deep interest in the election. The vote was remarkably large, and some of the contests were close enough to be exciting.

In East Liverpool the greatest interest centered in the county clerkship fight, with James N. Hanley, the popular city clerk, contesting for the honor against Sherman Atchison, of Salem.
Both gentlemen are well known in politics and both have a host of friends. The early returns came from the northern end of the county and were of course in Atchison's favor.
But when Hanley's friends heard from different wards and precincts of this city and other points in the neighborhood they smiled with satisfaction and appeared content. As the tabulated returns show, they had not the slightest ground for uneasiness. The highest vote given Mr. Atchison in any precinct of this city was 19 and the lowest 1. Hanley's plurality was the largest of that of any man on the county ticket. In Salem Mr. Atchison's popularity was attested by the fact that he received all but 71 votes out of a very large total.

The recordership contest perhaps furnished the greatest surprise. While many shrewd political observers expected Charles A. White, of Salineville, to win, probably no one expected that he would win by such a large majority. The earliest returns foreshadowed the result, leaving no doubt W. D. Turner, of Salem—a gentleman of unquestioned ability and of the highest standing—was bound to be snowed under by a man of equally good qualifications, sympathy for whose crippled condition brought him votes everywhere.

The commissionership race was the closest, and the result of it was in considerable doubt until midnight.
Boyd, the East Liverpool candidate made an excellent run, and so did Kannal, of Unity, but Carnes' wide acquaintance and his strong home support carried the day for him.

County returns were rather slow in coming in, and those from Liverpool township were particularly slow. This was due to the surprisingly large vote in this city—in excess of 3,000—and to the fact that the counting of the county ticket was not attempted until after that of the city ticket had been completed.

Interested crowds surrounded the News Review bulletin boards until a late hour, despite rain and other inconveniences. Almost as much interest in the local contests was shown as if it had been a presidential election.

READY FOR DONATIONS

Carnegie Library Prepared to Receive Books—Gifts Will Be Appreciated.

The book committee of the Carnegie library has completed its first order list of several thousand volumes and submitted it to publishers north, east and west. The Wilson Stationery company, of this city, will also bid.
Proposals will be opened on March 10.

In the meantime the library will be open all day and the librarian will be there to receive any gifts for the library.

In almost every house in East Liverpool there are books which have been read and laid aside, or duplicate copies of books which only fill up needed space in the book cases. These would be of great use to the library, as the money it would cost to buy these could then be spent for other books. Suggestions for the purchase of books that people want to read will be gladly received and passed upon by the book committee.

If donations are brought in during this week it will allow the book committee an opportunity of revising its lists before actually ordering, and when the library is opened it will be found to cover a much wider field.
There must be a thousand families in East Liverpool who could easily spare one volume or more from their own libraries and will be glad to put them where they can be of interest and value to others.

DOWN-RIVER TOWNS

Caught the Full Effect of the Flood And Many Persons Are Homeless.

The river reached its maximum at Toronto at noon Sunday and is slowly receding. It lacked but two inches of the '91 flood. Not a factory or house in Toronto was touched, but much of New Cumberland and Empire were inundated and the people homeless.

There are several feet of water in the Chelsea China company's plant and other clay factories at New Cumberland, but as they were amply warned the loss will not be excessive, although it will aggregate many thousand dollars.

A Steubenville Bankrupt.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the United States court by John L. Jones, a merchant of Steubenville. The liabilities are scheduled at $2,079.40 and the assets amount to $232.

BIG POTTERY BURNED SUNDAY

The J. B. Owens Art Plant at Zanesville Completely Destroyed.

LOSS WILL BE $250,000

Insurance on the Plant Was Low And Owners Were Arranging an Increase—W. J. Owen, Formerly of This City, the Manager.

Zanesville, March 3.—The J. B.
Owens mammoth art pottery plant was burned to the ground yesterday, the building and contents being totally destroyed. The loss is $250,000, with $140,000 insurance. J. W. Bell, agent, had just been trying to get the insurance on the plant, which was low, increased to $175,000, and that amount had been ordered, but had not been arranged for.

W. J. Owen, formerly of East Liverpool, is manager of the plant.
The fire started in the engine room and spread with great rapidity, the explosion of chemicals materially helping to scatter the conflagration. The fire department was powerless because of the lack of water pressure.
The manufactured stock on hand had just been invoiced at $136,000 preparatory to an additional insurance, which, however, had not yet been written. Four hundred persons were thrown out of employment, but the plant will be immediately rebuilt.
No sooner had the firemen returned from the Owens fire than they were called to the Kearns-Gorsuch glass works, in the heart of the city, the warehouse of which had evidently been fired by an incendiary. The ware-

Came Back to Vote.

Lisbon, March 3. — (Special) — to vote on Saturday were State Treasurer I. B. Cameron, Senator C. C. Connell and G. C. Baxley, from Columbus. Congressman R. W. Taylor and Ed A. King missed connections at Pittsburg and came, via Leetonia, to-late to vote. All will attend the county central committee meeting tomorstreets were thronged with busy workers.

THE CITY IN THE GRASP OF A DESTRUCTIVE FLOOD WHICH DID GREAT DAMAGE

election was conceded by many of Gaston's friends, as the former has been making the canvass for several months, and his fences were in almost perfect condition.

S. T. Herbert and Joseph Betz, who opposed each other for city treasurer, were both well known and popular.
The campaign of each was honest and fair, but Herbert succeeded in winning by a fairly good majority.

For township clerk Willis Davidson was the popular candidate from the beginning and though a hard fight was put up by John Reark and his friends, the big policeman won out easily. Reark carried but one precinct, the second of the Fourth ward, where the two men ran very close all the way through the count. When it was finished Reark stood 130 to Davidson's 125. The loss to Reark will be heavier than upon any other defeated candidate, since this was his third trial for the place. On three former occasions he contended with
J. N. Hanley for the place.

Frank Dickey was an easy winner for street commissioner, and his vote was no surprise to his friends. Cordingley made a good showing and had many friends in all parts of the city.

The fact that Highfield and Lewis were both from the same ward—the Fourth—is thought to have hurt their chances.

Murphy, Wells, Kelly and Vodrey won over King for board of education, and will all be returned to the body.

The contests for council in all the wards were spirited and close with the exception of the Fourth, where McConnell won out by a handsome majority.

In the First Heddleston and Johnston conducted a fight which under ordinary circumstances would have won for either. Johnston proved the more popular of the two, however, and his plurality was 49.

The contest between George Peach and Charles H. Berg, for council in the Third, was also hard fought, Peach winning by 290 to 230.

Both McLane and McConnell continued to line up their friends all the afternoon in the Fourth, and the former was confident of victory from the beginning. The count had not progressed far when it was demonstrated that McConnell was the winner. He carried both precincts by comfortable majorities, having 169 votes to the good, the largest majority secured by any councilmanic candidate.

In the Fifth Dr. Marshall defeated Jameson by 71 votes despite the hard fight made against him. The feeling was so strong and the enemies of Marshall went so far in their opposition to him that it is said in many cases the truth was not adhered to. In one instance in particular the reports were without foundation. It was said that the doctor employed non-union carpenters, but Robert Newell, secretary of the carpenters' union, declares the story to be untrue.

Powell's victory over Harry Hughes for constable was no surprise, and had been conceded from the first.

Lisbon, March 3.—(Special)—Philip Goodwin, an inmate of the county infirmary, was found dead on the road leading past the Braughton farm yesterday. He had voted at the primaries on Saturday and was seen at 8 o'clock considerably intoxicated. He was 57 years old. He will be buried at the infirmary this evening. He formerly worked as a cobbler in Lisbon.

HIGHEST STAGE OF THE WATER

Was 41 Feet And 10 Inches, Surpassing the 1898 Flood—People at the West End And on Lowlands Had to Move—River Slowly Falling.

The Ohio river at this city yesterday morning reached a stage of 41 feet and 10 inches. From 6 o'clock yesterday morning until noon today, there was only a fall of 6 feet, sufficient to allow the lower floors of potteries to be cleaned and the cleaning of the street car tracks.

Manager Healy said this morning that from indications the traffic would be resumed on the entire street railway line by Wednesday noon if possible, or Thursday morning at the latest. It is thought the potteries will be able to resume operations tomorrow, but this is not definitely known.
Cars started to run to Wellsville this afternoon.

The river is still enormously high,
but the worst is over. Saturday hundreds watched the rise. Yesterday thousands watched the waters slowly receding. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning the Ohio river reached its highest stage, after reaching above the 40-foot mark.

There was more water in the river than last year, when only 39 feet was registered at the Broadway wharf.
After reaching its highest point the stream remained stationary for several hours and then began to fall. Not since the great flood of 1884 was there so much anxiety felt over the safety of property in the low lands as there was Saturday.

Reports received during the day from Pittsburg stated the river was still rising at headwaters, and on this account the unusual was looked for here.

The flood reached the boilers at the pump station early Saturday evening, putting out the fires and causing the pumps to be shut down. Immediately word was sent to the central fire station, asking the use of the fire engine. This was taken to the foot of Market street, where it was kept in constant use all Saturday night and Sunday, pumping water into the mains through a plug. The power back of this engine was not sufficient to force the water up the hill districts and much inconvenience was caused persons residing there, many families had to carry water or go without.
However, the best service possible was given the public by Supt. Morley under the circumstances.

Pumps were started today at the station. Water was kept in the reservoir for emergency, this being done in case fire should occur.
Not a pottery in the city was in full operation today, and it is not likely that all will resume tomorrow. Of course this will greatly depend upon conditions at the pumping station. This morning in all the river potteries, a large force of men were employed cleaning and scrubbing the floors which were flooded. If this soft mud should be allowed to remain on the floors after the water had receded it would be at least a week before work could be resumed in the lower parts of the factories. As the water falls this mud is washed out, thus saving much time and expense.

It is estimated the flood caused a loss of between $50,000 and $75,000 to this city. This is largely divided among pottery employes, manufacturers, the East Liverpool street railway company and its employes and also to property.

The greatest loss to property was in the West End, where the entire Jethro hollow district was flooded.
Coal flats were brought into use on Saturday by residents of this flooded district, who placed their furniture in the flats and tying the latter near the shore. The loss to property in

BIG POTTERY BURNED SUNDAY

The J. B. Owens Art Plant at Zanesville Completely Destroyed.

LOSS WILL BE $250,000

Insurance on the Plant Was Low And Owners Were Arranging an Increase—W. J. Owen, Formerly of This City, the Manager.

Zanesville, March 3.—The J. B. Owens mammoth art pottery plant was burned to the ground yesterday, the building and contents being totally destroyed. The loss is $250,000, with $140,000 insurance. J. W. Bell, agent, had just been trying to get the insurance on the plant, which was low, increased to $175,000, and that amount had been ordered, but had not been arranged for.

W. J. Owen, formerly of East Liverpool, is manager of the plant. The fire started in the engine room and spread with great rapidity, the explosion of chemicals materially helping to scatter the conflagration. The fire department was powerless because of the lack of water pressure. The manufactured stock on hand had just been invoiced at $136,000 preparatory to an additional insurance, which, however, had not yet been written. Four hundred persons were thrown out of employment, but the plant will be immediately rebuilt.

No sooner had the firemen returned from the Owens fire than they were called to the Kearns-Gorsuch glass works, in the heart of the city, the warehouse of which had evidently been fired by an incendiary. The ware-

Came Back to Vote.

Lisbon, March 3.—(Special)—Among those who came back to Lisbon to vote on Saturday were State Treasurer I. B. Cameron, Senator C. C. Connel and G. C. Baxley, from Columbus. Congressman R. W. Tayler and Ed A. King missed connections at Pittsburgh and came, via Leetonia, too late to vote. All will attend the county central committee meeting tomorrow.

son and Councilman Nice, of the Second ward, both of whom were out for a second term, there were contests on every office.

Marshal Thomas V. Thompson, for a second term, and Henry Aufderheide, a member of the local police force, were pitted against each other and the contest promised to be a warm one. Not long after the count was commenced, however, Thompson's election was conceded and he won by a plurality of 978.

For solicitor M. J. McGarry was the winner over W. K. Gaston, the present incumbent. The contest was hard fought, both men having strong organizations in the field. McGarry's election was conceded by many of Gaston's friends, as the former has been making the canvass for several months, and his fences were in almost perfect condition.

S. T. Herbert and Joseph Betz, who opposed each other for city treasurer, were both well known and popular. The campaign of each was honest and fair, but Herbert succeeded in winning by a fairly good majority.

For township clerk Willis Davidson was the popular candidate from the beginning and though a hard fight was put up by John Reark and his friends, the big policeman won out easily. Reark carried but one precinct, the second of the Fourth ward, where the two men ran very close all the way through the count. When it was finished Reark stood 130 to Davidson's 125. The loss to Reark will be heavier than upon any other defeated candidate, since this was his third trial for the place. On three former occasions he contended with J. N. Hanley for the place.

Frank Dickey was an easy winner for street commissioner, and his vote was no surprise to his friends. Cordingley made a good showing and had many friends in all parts of the city.

The fact that Highfield and Lewis were both from the same ward—the Fourth—is thought to have hurt their chances.

Murphy, Wells, Kelly and Vodrey won over King for board of education, and will all be returned to the body.

The contests for council in all the wards were spirited and close with the exception of the Fourth, where McConnell won out by a handsome majority.

In the First Heddeleston and Johnston conducted a fight which under ordinary circumstances would have won for either. Johnston proved the more popular of the two, however, and his plurality was 49.

The contest between George Peach and Charles H. Berg, for council in the Third, was also hard fought, Peach winning by 290 to 230.

Both McLane and McConnell continued to line up their friends all the afternoon in the Fourth, and the former was confident of victory from the beginning. The count had not progressed far when it was demonstrated that McConnell was the winner. He carried both precincts by comfortable majorities, having 169 votes to the good, the largest majority secured by any councilman candidate.

In the Fifth Dr. Marshall defeated Jameson by 71 votes despite the hard fight made against him. The feeling was so strong and the enemies of Marshall went so far in their opposition to him that it is said in many cases the truth was not adhered to. In one instance in particular the reports were without foundation. It was said that the doctor employed non-union carpenters, but Robert Newell, secretary of the carpenters' union, declares the story to be untrue.

Powell's victory over Harry Hughes for constable was no surprise, and had been conceded from the first.

THE LOSS WILL BE GREAT

A Large Share Falling On Workmen Who Are Forced to Be Idle.

HIGHEST STAGE OF THE WATER

Was 41 Feet And 10 Inches, Surpassing the 1898 Flood—People at the West End And on Lowlands Had to Move—River Slowly Falling.

The Ohio river at this city yesterday morning reached a stage of 41 feet and 10 inches. From 6 o'clock yesterday morning until noon today, there was only a fall of 6 feet, sufficient to allow the lower floors of potteries to be cleaned and the cleaning of the street car tracks.

Manager Healy said this morning that from indications the traffic would be resumed on the entire street railway line by Wednesday noon if possible, or Thursday morning at the latest. It is thought the potteries will be able to resume operations tomorrow, but this is not definitely known. Cars started to run to Wellsville this afternoon.

The river is still enormously high, but the worst is over. Saturday hundreds watched the rise. Yesterday thousands watched the waters slowly receding. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning the Ohio river reached its highest stage, after reaching above the 40-foot mark.

There was more water in the river than last year, when only 39 feet was registered at the Broadway wharf. After reaching its highest point the stream remained stationary for several hours and then began to fall. Not since the great flood of 1884 was there so much anxiety felt over the safety of property in the low lands as there was Saturday.

Reports received during the day from Pittsburg stated the river was still rising at headwaters, and on this account the unusual was looked for here.

The flood reached the boilers at the pump station early Saturday evening, putting out the fires and causing the pumps to be shut down. Immediately word was sent to the central fire station, asking the use of the fire engine. This was taken to the foot of Market street, where it was kept in constant use all Saturday night and Sunday, pumping water into the mains through a plug. The power back of this engine was not sufficient to force the water up the hill districts and much inconvenience was caused persons residing there, many families had to carry water or go without. However, the best service possible was given the public by Supt. Morley under the circumstances.

Pumps were started today at the station. Water was kept in the reservoir for emergency, this being done in case fire should occur. Not a pottery in the city was in full operation today, and it is not likely that all will resume tomorrow. Of course this will greatly depend upon conditions at the pumping station. This morning in all the river potteries, a large force of men were employed cleaning and scrubbing the floors which were flooded. If this soft mud should be allowed to remain on the floors after the water had receded it would be at least a week before work could be resumed in the lower parts of the factories. As the water falls this mud is washed out, thus saving much time and expense.

It is estimated the flood caused a loss of between $50,000 and $75,000 to this city. This is largely divided among pottery employes, manufacturers, the East Liverpool street railway company and its employes and also to property.

The greatest loss to property was in the West End, where the entire Jethro hollow district was flooded. Coal flats were brought into use on Saturday by residents of this flooded district, who placed their furniture in the flats and tying the latter near the shore. The loss to property in

"The residents of the East End would rather have me building new houses, and bringing in new voters than to sit in council," was a remark made by Alex Chafin in the office of Walter Supplee this morning.

Guesses were made in many East End potteries last week as to how many votes Mr. Chafin would receive, and these were anywhere from 25 to 50. Mr. Chafin says he is out of politics for good.

Pitched Out Into the Mud.

Edward Wherry, a Jameson worker at the Fifth ward polls Saturday, met with an accident which came near being attended with serious results. He was returning to the polls in a carriage, after accompanying an elderly gentleman to his home after he had voted, when the carriage partially upset, throwing Wherry into the street. He fell into a lot of mud, but was not injured. The carriage was somewhat damaged.

HOW THE CHINESE GET RAIN

Some Peculiar Practices in Vogue in the Celestial Kingdom.

It is one of the peculiarities of the Chinese that, while they have developed elaborate philosophies, none of them has led to any confidence in the uniformity of nature. Neither the people, nor their rulers have any fixed opinion as to the cause of rainfall. The plan in some provinces when the need of rain is felt is to borrow a god from a neighboring district and petition him for the desired result. If his answer is satisfactory, he is returned to his home with every mark of honor; otherwise he may be put out in the sun as a hint to wake up and do his duty. A bunch of willow is usually thrust into his hand, as willow is sensitive to moisture.

Another plan in extensive use is the building of special temples in which are wells containing several iron tables. When there is a scarcity of rain, a messenger starts out with a tablet marked with the date of the journey and the name of the district making the petition. Arriving at another city, he pays a sum of money and is allowed to draw another tablet from the well, throwing in his own by way of exchange. On the return journey he is supposed to eat only bran and travel at top speed day and night. Sometimes he passes through districts as greatly in need of rain as his own. Then the people in these places waylay him and, temporarily borrowing his tablet, get the rain intended for another place.

Prayers are usually made in the fifth and sixth months, when the rainfall is always due, and a limit of ten days is set for their effective operation. Under such conditions rain usually falls during the prescribed time. When the prayers are in progress, the umbrella, among other objects, comes under the ban. In some provinces foreigners have been mobbed for carrying this harmless article at that time.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Alex Chafin Announces That He Has Retired From the Political Arena.

"The residents of the East End would rather have me building new houses, and bringing in new voters than to sit in council," was a remark made by Alex Chafin in the office of Walter Suplee this morning.

Guesses were made in many East End potteries last week as to how many votes Mr. Chafin would receive, and these were anywhere from 25 to 50. Mr. Chafin says he is out of politics for good.

Pitched Out Into the Mud.

Edward Wherry, a Jameson worker at the Fifth ward polls Saturday, met with an accident which came near being attended with serious results. He was returning to the polls in a carriage, after accompanying an elderly gentleman to his home after he had voted, when the carriage partially upset, throwing Wherry into the street. He fell into a lot of mud, but was not injured. The carriage was somewhat damaged.

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited. Few are entirely free from it.

Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Eradicate it, positively and absolutely. This statement is based on the thousands of permanent cures these medicines have wrought.

"My daughter had scrofula, with eleven sores on her neck and about her ears. Hood's Sarsaparilla was highly recommended and she took it and was cured. She is now in good health." Mrs. J. H. Jones, Parker City, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

The body was found shortly before noon by his family, who went to call him to dinner. Illness and the suicide of a favorite son, Yale graduate a year ago, is believed to have made Mr. Perkins temporarily insane.

Mr. Perkins was born in Warren and always lived here. He was president of the First National bank of Warren, and also prominent in railroad and state affairs. He was a man of large fortune, said to be three or four million dollars.

HOW THE CHINESE GET RAIN

Some Peculiar Practices in Vogue in the Celestial Kingdom.

It is one of the peculiarities of the Chinese that, while they have developed elaborate philosophies, none of them has led to any confidence in the uniformity of nature. Neither the people, nor their rulers have any fixed opinion as to the cause of rainfall. The plan in some provinces when the need of rain is felt is to borrow a god from a neighboring district and petition him for the desired result. If his answer is satisfactory, he is returned to his home with every mark of honor; otherwise he may be put out in the sun as a hint to wake up and do his duty. A bunch of willow is usually thrust into his hand, as willow is sensitive to moisture.

Another plan in extensive use is the building of special temples in which are wells containing several iron tables. When there is a scarcity of rain, a messenger starts out with a tablet marked with the date of the journey and the name of the district making the petition. Arriving at another city, he pays a sum of money and is allowed to draw another tablet from the well, throwing in his own by way of exchange. On the return journey he is supposed to eat only bran and travel at top speed day and night. Sometimes he passes through districts as greatly in need of rain as his own. Then the people in these places waylay him and, temporarily borrowing his tablet, get the rain intended for another place.

Prayers are usually made in the fifth and sixth months, when the rainfall is always due, and a limit of ten days is set for their effective operation. Under such conditions rain usually falls during the prescribed time. When the prayers are in progress, the umbrella, among other objects, comes under the ban. In some provinces foreigners have been mobbed for carrying this harmless article at that time.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

UPPER OHIO FLOODED.

Most River Men Predict Over 54 Feet, at Cincinnati--Some Expect 59.7.

WHEELING DISTRICT SUFFERING.

Island Two-Thirds Covered and Fully 700 Families Occupying Upper Floors of Houses—Water Fell at Pittsburg—Other Sections Flooded.

Cincinnati, March 3.—Reports from the upper Ohio valley last night showed the river rising from Wheeling to Ripley and above the danger line at all intermediate points. Observer Basseller, of this city, reported to the weather bureau at Washington last night as follows:

"The Ohio river in the upper district is above danger lines. It will pass the danger line at Cincinnati (50 feet) at 9 a. m. Monday. Timely warnings have been issued throughout this district. No avoidable loss should occur here."

At 6 o'clock last night the river here was 47 feet. All those along the river front had been busy Sunday moving goods in anticipation of the crest today. Most of the river men predict a stage of over 54 feet and some expect the flood to equal that of last April, when it was 59.7 feet here.

Wheeling District Badly Flooded.

Wheeling, March 3.—Wheeling last night was in the grasp of the worst flood it has experienced since that of 1884 with but one exception. The maximum stage was reached at 6 o'clock last evening, 43 feet 3 inches. In Wheeling, Bellaire, Benwood, Martins Ferry and Bridgeport scores of factories have been entered by the raging waters, fires extinguished and 20,000 men placed on the list of involuntary idleness.

Wheeling island was two-thirds covered by water last night and fully seven hundred families are occupying the upper floors of their homes. South Wheeling and Benwood were hit fully as hard. Owing to the slow advance of the flood tide, however, the people were enabled to move their belongings and as a consequence the property loss is not as heavy as on former occasions.

Yesterday afternoon, North Wheeling boys built a fire on the river bank and in the debris used as fuel was among other things a partially filled can of nitro-glycerin, which exploded with a tremendous report. Three of the boys were seriously injured, but will recover. They are: Harry Dean, Charles Lytle and Ray Herbert.

Another half-filled can of nitro-glycerine was kicked around in the gutter in front of the Hotel Windsor by boys until an oil man disclosed the character of the contents. Then there was a scattering of the population in all directions. The police were called and removed the can.

Deaths During Flood.

Pittsburg, March 3.—With the flood backed up to the very bed of the dead wagon, an Allegheny undertaker, under great difficulties, removed the remains of a woman from a home in the water-besieged section of the Northside.

While the tide ebbed all around the residence another life in the same house was ebbing rapidly toward eternity. By the time the second death occurred the raging river had risen to such a stage that the body had to be taken away by means of a rowboat.

At one place the dead could not be removed, and a funeral was postponed until the water about the grief-stricken home had subsided sufficiently for the obsequies to be possible.

Pittsburg, March 3.—The Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers reached a high point at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, when a stage of 32.4 feet was registered.

From that hour until 9 o'clock the rivers remained stationary, and then began to fall slowly.

At 7 o'clock it became apparent that the force of the flood had been spent and reports from up-river points confirmed this observation. Before that hour it seemed probable that a 35-foot stage would be experienced, and that the great flood of 1884 would be eclipsed, and the greater flood of Feb. 10, 1882, equaled. As it was the flood of 1902 is the third greatest in the history of Pittsburg.

The expectation that the river would rise to 25 feet early Saturday morning was more than verified, as the marks showed 25 feet. Persons who had counted on 25 feet and were waiting for morning to move their goods to safe places found themselves face to face with a problem.

The Irish, Armed, A GREATER THREAT Than the Boers

By LORD SALISBURY, Premier of Great Britain

THE existence of hostile feeling in Ireland is a signal that the efforts upon which depend in no light degree the glory and continuance of the empire must not be relaxed.

The feelings of hostility which have of late been expressed are more uncompromising than any expressions which ever issued from the lips of Parnell or O'Connell.

AN IRISH GOVERNMENT WITH POWER TO ACCUMULATE ARMS AND AMMUNITION WOULD CONSTITUTE A MORE SERIOUS THREAT THAN HAVE THE BOERS.

Water Drove Them From Work.

In spite of the rapid work the water rose so rapidly for a time that the men were driven from their work.

All day long thousands of people watched the flood come up little by little as it spread out over its banks and streets and began to pour into the basements of large buildings. Soon the waters began lapping at the base of the big buildings and forcing the people back to higher ground.

Between the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers there was a marked difference. The former carried on its bosom thousands of tons of ice from far up the stream, while the surface of the other was almost free of debris and calm as a lake.

Lower Allegheny and the Point district of Pittsburg were deep in water. To reach most of the bridges between the two cities skiffs or wagons were necessary, and passengers paid well for this short ride to escape wet feet.

Had Calculated on Moving Goods.

Scores of firms that had moved their goods from the cellars to the first floors anxiously watched the water coming up and calculated to a fine point how many inches more would make it necessary to move up one story higher. Most of them were saved from extra work by the margin of a few inches, and hailed with delight the news at 7 o'clock that the rivers were stationary.

No accurate estimate of the damage caused by the flood can be arrived at. Aside from the loss of business houses by cutting them off from communication with their customers, thousands of dollars worth of property will be damaged by the mud and water, the traces of which it will require weeks to efface.

Greater loss was escaped by the general preparations of the people, due to the timely warnings and the general apprehension of a flood for more than a week past.

Stagnation in Mill District.

The flood brought chaos and stagnation in the vast mill district along the Allegheny river in Pittsburg and Allegheny. Thousands of men employed in the numerous plants will be out of work, and hundreds of thousands of dollars damage will be sustained.

The actual damage to machinery in the various plants in the flooded district will not be as serious as would naturally be supposed, and this is due entirely to the early warnings that the weather bureau sent out, which gave the mill owners time to prepare for the worst and to protect such portions of their machinery as would suffer from flooding.

Another feature of the flood was that it came on Saturday, and, as is the custom of the mills of this district, there is a general shutdown in the morning for over Saturday night and until Sunday evening. This practically lessens the effect of the temporary closing of the various plants, as they were simply following their usual custom and would have closed down anyway.

Nearly 20,000 men were made idle.

Man Reported Drowned.

Steubenville, O., March 3.—The river began to fall at 4 p. m. yesterday, having reached a stage of 41 feet 9 inches. The Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad station buildings are flooded. Traffic on the Cleveland and Pittsburg and the Wheeling, Lake Erie and Western is suspended because of the tracks being under water. At Mingo Junction 50 houses are flooded. One man is reported drowned. Four thousand steel workers at Mingo Junction are idle because of high water.

NINE VICTIMS OF THE FLOOD.

Wilkesbarre, Pittston and Other Eastern Pennsylvania Towns Suffer From Disastrous Flood.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 3.—A heavy rainfall and rush of water from its upper tributaries caused the north branch of the Susquehanna river to rise rapidly Sunday. At 10 o'clock last evening the gauge showed 31 feet and 3 inches. It is thought there will be another rise of a few inches before the water recedes. Sunday's high water mark is equal to that of 1865, which has always been known as a record breaker.

The water is over the banks of the river from Pittston to Nanticoke, and resembles a vast lake. Nearly one-half of the city is under water. At West Moor, Firewood and Riverside nearly all the residents vacated their houses.

The people living on river and adjoining streets, which is the principal resident portion of this city, were hemmed in by the water and are unable to leave their homes unless by boat. All the streets in West Pittston are under several feet of water.

Had to Move Dead Body.

Two hundred families living in the lowlands in the town of Plymouth had to leave their houses hastily Sunday afternoon, the water covering the first floors and putting out the fires. The body of Mrs. Rowland, who died Sunday afternoon, had to be removed from the premises on a boat, as there was danger of the house being carried away. Dr. W. J. Butler had to be rowed in a boat to a house at Riverside to attend a woman, who shortly afterward gave birth to a child.

At Nanticoke several houses were swept away by the rushing waters and the people living in them had a narrow escape for their lives. The flooding of the boiler room of the power houses of the Wilkesbarre and Wyoming Valley Traction company disabled the electric railway system of the whole valley. The Lehigh Valley railroad was able to get a train through from Mauch Chunk Sunday afternoon. It was the first train from the east since Friday afternoon.

The tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway between this city and Pittston are covered with several feet of water.

Several washouts are reported all along the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. It is not known when this road will be able to resume the running of trains. Three feet of water covers the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad at Buttonwood.

Reports from the mine show that many of them were flooded, and it will take some days before they can be pumped out. This will curtail the output of coal.

Nine lives had been lost so far last night. The damage to property is estimated at $1,000,000.

Highest in 25 Years.

Susquehanna, Pa., March 3.—The Susquehanna river is the highest in 25 years. The heavy body of ice between Binghamton and Cooperstown has passed out and has done much damage. The tannery building at Red Rock was carried down stream and took with it a section of the county bridge connecting Great Bend and Halstead. All passenger trains are running from New York to Waverly, thence westward over the Lehigh Valley road to Buffalo. Lehigh Valley live stock trains are running over the Erie between Waverly and New York. The Erie road has a large force of men repairing tracks at Waverly and at other points. The Pennsylvania division of the Delaware and Hudson railroad between Scranton and Ninevah is tied up by high water at various points.

Allentown, Pa., March 3.—No lives were lost in the flood of Friday and Saturday, but there were many narrow escapes from drowning and from being crushed under falling or floating buildings. The Jersey Central double track bridge over the Lehigh river and over Klines island is so badly damaged that it cannot be used. Trains are run over the Lehigh Valley road from Allentown to Easton. The Jersey Central's bridge at Glenoko is down and all wires to the north are leveled. A gang of 150 men is out making repairs. Trolley cars resumed running yesterday morning, but did not reach all points on the line. The gas plant started up yesterday afternoon and the electric plant was also in operation last night.

Damage About Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, March 3.—The second and third piers of the famous old camel back bridge on the Harrisburg side were washed away by high water early yesterday morning. The bridge

In Wheeling, Bellaire, Benwood, Martins Ferry and Bridgeport scores of factories have been entered by the raging waters, fires extinguished and 20,000 men placed on the list of involuntary idleness.

Wheeling island was two-thirds covered by water last night and fully seven hundred families are occupying the upper floors of their homes. South Wheeling and Benwood were hit fully as hard. Owing to the slow advance of the flood tide, however, the people were enabled to move their belongings and as a consequence the property loss is not as heavy as on former occasions.

Yesterday afternoon, North Wheeling boys built a fire on the river bank and in the debris used as fuel was among other things a partially filled can of nitro-glycerin, which exploded with a tremendous report. Three of the boys were seriously injured, but will recover. They are: Harry Dean, Charles Lytle and Ray Herbert.

Another half-filled can of nitro-glycerine was kicked around in the gutter in front of the Hotel Windsor by boys until an oil man disclosed the character of the contents. Then there was a scattering of the population in all directions. The police were called and removed the can.

Deaths During Flood.

Pittsburg, March 3.--With the flood backed up to the very bed of the dead wagon, an Allegheny undertaker, under great difficulties, removed the remains of a woman from a home in the water-besieged section of the Northside.

While the tide ebbed all around the residence another life in the same house was ebbing rapidly toward eternity. By the time the second death occurred the raging river had risen to such a stage that the body had to be taken away by means of a rowboat.

At one place the dead could not be removed, and a funeral was postponed until the water about the grief-stricken home had subsided sufficiently for the obsequies to be possible.

Pittsburg, March 3.--The Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers reached a high point at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, when a stage of 32.4 feet was registered.

From that hour until 9 o'clock the rivers remained stationary, and then began to fall slowly.

At 7 o'clock it became apparent that the force of the flood had been spent and reports from up-river points confirmed this observation. Before that hour it seemed probable that a 35-foot stage would be experienced, and that the great flood of 1884 would be eclipsed, and the greater flood of Feb. 10, 1892, equaled. As it was the flood of 1902 is the third greatest in the history of Pittsburg.

The expectation that the river would rise to 25 feet early Saturday morning was more than verified, as the marks showed 29 feet. Persons who had counted on 25 feet and were waiting for morning to move their goods to safe places found themselves face to face with a problem.

The Irish, Armed, A GREATER THREAT Than the Boers

By LORD SALISBURY, Premier of Great Britain

THE existence of hostile feeling in Ireland is a signal that the efforts upon which depend in no light degree the glory and continuance of the empire must not be relaxed.

The feelings of hostility which have of late been expressed are more uncompromising than any expressions which ever issued from the lips of Parnell or O'Connell.

Water Drove Them From Work.

In spite of the rapid work the water rose so rapidly for a time that the men were driven from their work.

All day long thousands of people watched the flood come up little by little as it spread out over its banks and streets and began to pour into the basements of large buildings. Soon the waters began lapping at the base of the big buildings and forcing the people back to higher ground.

Between the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers there was a marked difference. The former carried on its bosom thousands of tons of ice from far up the stream, while the surface of the other was almost free of debris and calm as a lake.

Lower Allegheny and the Point district of Pittsburg were deep in water. To reach most of the bridges between the two cities skiffs or wagons were necessary, and passengers paid well for this short ride to escape wet feet.

Had Calculated on Moving Goods.

Scores of firms that had moved their goods from the cellars to the first floors anxiously watched the water coming up and calculated to a fine point how many inches more would make it necessary to move up one story higher. Most of them were saved from extra work by the margin of a few inches, and hailed with delight the news at 7 o'clock that the rivers were stationary.

No accurate estimate of the damage caused by the flood can be arrived at. Aside from the loss of business houses by cutting them off from communication with their customers, thousands of dollars worth of property will be damaged by the mud and water, the traces of which it will require weeks to efface.

Greater loss was escaped by the general preparations of the people, due to the timely warnings and the general apprehension of a flood for more than a week past.

Stagnation in Mill District.

The flood brought chaos and stagnation in the vast mill district along the Allegheny river in Pittsburg and Allegheny. Thousands of men employed in the numerous plants will be out of work, and hundreds of thousands of dollars damage will be sustained.

The actual damage to machinery in the various plants in the flooded district will not be as serious as would naturally be supposed, and this is due entirely to the early warnings that the weather bureau sent out, which gave the mill owners time to prepare for the worst and to protect such portions of their machinery as would suffer from flooding.

Another feature of the flood was that it came on Saturday, and, as is the custom of the mills of this district, there is a general shutdown in the morning for over Saturday night and until Sunday evening. This practically lessens the effect of the temporary closing of the various plants, as they were simply following their usual custom and would have closed down anyway.

Nearly 20,000 men were made idle.

Man Reported Drowned.

Steuenville, O., March 3.--The river began to fall at 4 p. m. yesterday, having reached a stage of 41 feet 9 inches. The Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad station buildings are flooded. Traffic on the Cleveland and Pittsburg and the Wheeling, Lake Erie and Western is suspended because of the tracks being under water. At Mingo Junction 50 houses are flooded. One man is reported drowned. Four thousand steel workers at Mingo Junction are idle because of high water.

NINE VICTIMS OF THE FLOOD.

Wilkesbarre, Pittston and Other Eastern Pennsylvania Towns Suffer From Disastrous Flood.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 3.--A heavy rainfall and rush of water from its upper tributaries caused the north branch of the Susquehanna river to rise rapidly Sunday. At 10 o'clock last evening the gauge showed 31 feet and 3 inches. It is thought there will be another rise of a few inches before the water recedes. Sunday's high water mark is equal to that of 1865, which has always been known as a record breaker.

The water is over the banks of the river from Pittston to Nanticoke and resembles a vast lake. Nearly one-half of the city is under water. At

West Moor Firewood and Riverside nearly all the residents vacated their houses.

The people living on river and adjoining streets, which is the principal resident portion of this city, were hemmed in by the water and are unable to leave their homes unless by boat. All the streets in West Pittston are under several feet of water.

Had to Move Dead Body.

Two hundred families living in the lowlands in the town of Plymouth had to leave their homes hastily Sunday afternoon, the water covering the first floors and putting out the fires. The body of Mrs. Rowland, who died Sunday afternoon, had to be removed from the premises on a boat, as there was danger of the house being carried away. Dr. W. J. Butler had to be rowed in a boat to a house at Riverside to attend a woman, who shortly afterward gave birth to a child.

At Nanticoke several houses were swept away by the rushing waters and the people living in them had a narrow escape for their lives. The flooding of the boiler room of the power houses of the Wilkesbarre and Wyoming Valley Traction company disabled the electric railway system of the whole valley. The Lehigh Valley railroad was able to get a train through from Mauch Chunk Sunday afternoon. It was the first train from the east since Friday afternoon.

The tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway between this city and Pittston are covered with several feet of water. Several washouts are reported all along the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. It is not known when this road will be able to resume the running of trains. Three feet of water covers the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad at Buttonwood.

Reports from the mine show that many of them were flooded, and it will take some days before they can be pumped out. This will curtail the output of coal.

Nine lives have been lost so far last night. The damage to property is estimated at $1,000,000.

Highest in 25 Years.

Susquehanna, Pa., March 3.--The Susquehanna river is the highest in 25 years. The heavy body of ice between Binghamton and Cooperstown has passed out and has done much damage. The tannery building at Red Rock was carried down stream and took with it a section of the county bridge connecting Great Bend and Halstead. All passenger trains are running from New York to Waverly, thence westward over the Lehigh Valley road to Buffalo. Lehigh Valley live stock trains are running over the Erie between Waverly and New York. The Erie road has a large force of men repairing tracks at Waverly and at other points. The Pennsylvania division of the Delaware and Hudson railroad between Scranton and Ninevah is tied up by high water at various points.

Allentown, Pa., March 3.--No lives were lost in the flood of Friday and Saturday, but there were many narrow escapes from drowning and from being crushed under falling or floating buildings. The Jersey Central double track bridge over the Lehigh river and over Klines island is so badly damaged that it cannot be used. Trains are run over the Lehigh Valley road from Allentown to Easton. The Jersey Central's bridge at Glenoko is down and all wires to the north are leveled. A gang of 150 men is out making repairs. Trolley cars resumed running yesterday morning, but did not reach all points on the line. The gas plant started up yesterday afternoon and the electric plant was also in operation last night.

Damage About Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, March 3.--The second and third piers of the famous old camel back bridge on the Harrisburg side were washed away by high water early yesterday morning. The bridge

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

The Republicans of Columbiana county seldom make mistakes. They have made no mistake in the ticket they have chosen for important county offices. While disappointment in some quarters is inevitable, even the disappointed ones must admit that it is an admirable ticket and that it merits the undivided and earnest support of the whole party. This, we feel confident, it will receive. The ticket is therefore as good as elected, and it is a credit to the Republican voters of the county.

Especially gratifying is the large vote that was polled. It shows that the Republican party is in excellent shape and that its voters are not neglectful of good citizens' duties.

What has been said of the county ticket can be repeated with emphasis concerning the city ticket. It is composed of good men, who have the city's best interests at heart, and of sound Republicanism. Important matters will come before the new city administration for solution. The number of such questions is constantly increasing, the rapid growth of the city rendering each local election more important than the preceding one. The men who were nominated on Saturday and who will shortly be elected are, in the majority of cases, familiar with the city's affairs, as well as young, energetic and progressive. The city can safely look to them for a capable and creditable administration.

During the period from 1891 to 1901 the exports of the United States increased in value from $970,509,646 to $1,465,380,919. Of the increase of four hundred and ninety-five millions more than four hundred millions is attributable to Europe and North America, and it may be said that the details of the trade prove conclusively that the highest promise is where there is the highest civilization. While the exports to China, of which we hear so much, have advanced from eight millions to eighteen millions the exports to the United Kingdom have increased from $482,295,796 to $598,766,799.

A burst reservoir, a flooded pumping station and a dearth even of muddy water when water is superabundant. East Liverpool is in an unfortunate plight. Let us hope that the promised solution of the water problem is near. The people have been patient, but they are beginning to feel that it is time for energetic effort to remedy existing conditions.

Columbiana county Republicans are numerous and they were mostly awake to the importance of voting yesterday. This is as it should be. No community is liable to go far wrong politically where the citizens show proper interest in elections.

The state of Ohio is said to contain 5,000 places where liquor is illegally sold. There is no excuse for one of them existing, and the determination of the state department to drive them out of business is deserving of the warmest encouragement.

The New York legislature has passed a bill forbidding the wanton and cruel sport of slaughtering pigeons as a test of marksmanship. Humane people everywhere will rejoice and hope that the example set by the Empire state will spread.

The earliest snake of the season is reported to have made its appearance at Youngstown. A season in which some of the residents of that city were not seeing snakes would certainly be phenomenal.

American favor is something worth having. Europe has come to tardy recognition of the fact. The Spanish war was not a great one, except in results, but it gave the world a new revelation of America's strength and greatness.

AT THE THEATER

At the opera house Tuesday night Edward C. White's highly successful and delightful drama, "Two Little Vagrants," which has taken a first place in its own class as an instructive and thoroughly entertaining play. The story is extremely interesting, appealing as it does to the tender sympathies of the human heart, and representing throughout the entire four acts a remarkable concentration of dramatic vigor and strong sentiment.

The Orpheon Extravaganza company of Chicago will bring to the opera house Wednesday night a bevy of the handsomest girls that ever wore tights. There are 40 in the chorus and their costumes are the most elaborate ever worn in burlesque, being exact copies of those in the original Weber-Fields productions of "Whirl-I-Gig" and "Fiddle-dee-dee," which are the two skits selected for this city. The engagement here is for one week.

"A Wise Guy" has been almost rewritten this season. Last season's version has been gleaned of its bright bits and other new original comedy lines, music situations and characters have been interpolated into this season's version of one of the funniest farce comedies ever presented. At the opera house Thursday night.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The regular meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary comes tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. as the auxiliary as a body has not heretofore seen the double dissolving stereopticon which it purchased. Mr. Wright, assisted by Dr. Birkett, has arranged a set of views for the occasion. No card notices are to be sent out and the ladies are requested to consider this an invitation and gather in force. Plans for a big entertainment on March 13 will be up for discussion.

The board of directors will hold a special meeting with lunch at 6:30 Tuesday evening and will be invited to remain for the stereopticon entertainment.

March 13 marks the anniversary of the re-opening of the association and the advent of the secretary. A social will be planned and arrangements are on the tapis for a piano and song recital the following evening. W. C. POTTERY NEWS

A Pittsburg paper quotes A. M. Moreland, of the Union Pottery company, as saying concerning the new American Pottery company, of which he is president:

"They told me their proposition and asked me to go in. I told them I would on certain conditions. They can accept them or not. I can build a pottery in Trenton to handle the eastern trade. If they want the work to be done in their potteries so much the better. I am going after the eastern trade and do not care to run 12 kilns if I can run 100. I propose to work on business lines and have more orders now than I can handle. I do not need to cut prices or to take advantage of the workmen. I am willing to pay for everything I get and for everything that is done for me. If a man handles more for me than any one else I am willing to pay for it.

"I am in the pottery trade to do business and can back any move I make with $1,000,000 or $1,500,000. They told me I could not do certain things, but I am doing them and will easily cover the cost of the trial by the end of the year. I was told there was money in the pottery business and I believe it. I can see a way of getting it out by applying business principles."

A change will be made in the office force of the D. E. McNicol within the next few days. It has been said that Albert Corns, who took the position formerly held by Charles Surles, will be sent to the Smith-McNicol at Wellsville where he will assume the management of the plant. James Patterson has been looking after a portion of the office business of this factory, but his duties will be assumed by Mr. Corns while Mr. Patterson will be assigned to another part of the factory. John McNicol will be given the position vacated by Mr. Corns, but the individual who will take McNicol's place has not been named. Each change is in the shape of a promotion, a policy followed by this company for years.

The statement has been sent out from Trenton that arrangements have been made for the purchase of the charter of the old American Pottery company under which the new concern will operate and under the same name. It is expected that the details will have been completed by next week.

A. M. Moreland, formerly president of the Union Pottery company, is president of the American Pottery company, while John Burgess, of the International Pottery company, is treasurer. Other officers have not yet been elected.

Within the past five years potters' sponges have advanced 80 per cent in price, caused mainly by the scarcity of the article. An increase of 10 per cent was made here three months ago. In years past sponges were gathered close to the coasts, but now they are found in deeper water, and are much harder to procure than in former years. This has caused the useful article to the clay worker to be more costly.

The erection of the decorating plant of John D. Boyd & Co., of Trenton, which was burned to the ground last fall, has been completed. It is one of the most spacious manufacturing establishments in the city. Operations began last week, 80 hands being employed at the start.

The United States Pottery at Wellsville is building bottoms for four down draught kilns for biscuit firing. The only other Ohio plant using down draught kilns is in Akron, and the work of the Wellsville kilns will be watched with considerable interest.

The death last week of Leon A. Berod, at his home in Trenton, removes from the field of art decorating one of the most talented men in the United States. He died suddenly of heart trouble. He came from France about 20 years ago.

WOMAN MAKES CHARGES

AGAINST A MARRIED MAN OF THE WEST END.

The Accused Strenuously Denies His Guilt—Requisition Papers Demanded.

An affidavit filed in Squire W. C. Johnston's court at Chester resulted in the arrest this morning of a well known married man residing in the West End on the charge of assault and battery with criminal intent.

Mrs. Annie Barker, wife of an employe of the Chester mill, filed the charge in Justice Johnston's court last Saturday, but because the defendant is a resident of Ohio it was necessary for the woman to file a second affidavit. She did so this morning in Justice McCarron's court and Contable Powell soon after placed the accused man under arrest.

He was taken before Magistrate McCarron, when he refused to go to West Virginia without requisition papers. He strenuously denied his guilt and stated that he feared if he consented to go before the Chester magistrate evidence would be introduced against him which would convict him. He was placed under $500 bond to appear for trial this evening. The bond was promptly furnished.

According to the statements of Mrs. Barker to Justice McCarron it is evident that the man she accuses is not guilty of all she alleges. She said that while working about her home the accused man asked her for a drink of water and that after she had given it to him he seized her about the waist, drawing her on his lap and kissed her.

Aside from giving her a squeeze the woman herself admitted that the young man did not do anything wrong. However, she insisted on his arrest and swore that he tried to overpower her. After the papers had been made out, the woman said she would not have had the action begun only because, as she alleged, that the accused circulated slanderous reports about her.

Constable Powell went to Chester at noon and informed Mrs. Barker that the defendant in the case was ready for trial. Some spicy testimony is looked for.

IN CONTRADICTION TO THE STATEMENT MADE LAST WEEK CONCERNING DR. MARSHALL'S EMPLOYING NON-UNION LABOR THE FOLLOWING IS A SECTION OF THE SPECIFICATIONS USED BY HIM WHEN BUILDING THE HOUSES:

MONDAY, MARCH 3, 1902.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

The Republicans of Columbiana county seldom make mistakes. They have made no mistake in the ticket they have chosen for important county offices. While disappointment in some quarters is inevitable, even the disappointed ones must admit that it is an admirable ticket and that it merits the undivided and earnest support of the whole party. This, we feel confident, it will receive. The ticket is therefore as good as elected, and it is a credit to the Republican voters of the county.

Especially gratifying is the large vote that was polled. It shows that the Republican party is in excellent shape and that its voters are not neglectful of good citizens' duties.

What has been said of the county ticket can be repeated with emphasis concerning the city ticket. It is composed of good men, who have the city's best interests at heart, and of sound Republicanism. Important matters will come before the new city administration for solution. The number of such questions is constantly increasing, the rapid growth of the city rendering each local election more important than the preceding one. The men who were nominated on Saturday and who will shortly be elected are, in the majority of cases, familiar with the city's affairs, as well as young, energetic and progressive. The city can safely look to them for a capable and creditable administration.

During the period from 1891 to 1901 the exports of the United States increased in value from $970,509,646 to $1,465,380,919. Of the increase of four hundred and ninety-five millions more than four hundred millions is attributable to Europe and North America, and it may be said that the details of the trade prove conclusively that the highest civilization is where there is the highest commerce. While the exports to China, of which we hear so much, have advanced from eight millions to eighteen millions the exports to the United Kingdom have increased from $482,295,796 to $598,766,799.

A burst reservoir, a flooded pumping station and a dearth even of muddy water when water is superabundant. East Liverpool is in an unfortunate plight. Let us hope that the promised solution of the water problem is near. The people have been patient, but they are beginning to feel that it is time for energetic effort to remedy existing conditions.

Columbiana county Republicans are numerous and they were mostly awake to the importance of voting yesterday. This is as it should be. No community is liable to go far wrong politically where the citizens show proper interest in elections.

The state of Ohio is said to contain 5,000 places where liquor is illegally sold. There is no excuse for one of them existing, and the determination of the state department to drive them out of business is deserving of the warmest encouragement.

The New York legislature has passed a bill forbidding the wanton and cruel sport of slaughtering pigeons as a test of marksmanship. Humane people everywhere will rejoice and hope that the example set by the Empire state will spread.

The earliest snake of the season is reported to have made its appearance at Youngstown. A season in which some of the residents of that city were not seeing snakes would certainly be phenomenal.

American favor is something worth having. Europe has come to tardy recognition of the fact. The Spanish war was not a great one, except in results, but it gave the world a new revelation of America's strength and greatness.

AT THE THEATER

At the opera house Tuesday night Edward C. White's highly successful and delightful drama, "Two Little Vagrants," which has taken a first place in its own class as an instructive and thoroughly entertaining play. The story is extremely interesting, appealing as it does to the tender sympathies of the human heart, and representing throughout the entire four acts a remarkable concentration of dramatic vigor and strong sentiment.

The Orpheon Extravaganza company of Chicago will bring to the opera house Wednesday night a bevy of the handsomest girls that ever wore tights. There are 40 in the chorus and their costumes are the most elaborate ever worn in burlesque, being exact copies of those in the original Weber-Fields productions of "Whirl-I-Gig" and "Fiddle-dee-dee," which are the two skits selected for this city. The engagement here is for one week.

"A Wise Guy" has been almost rewritten this season. Last season's version has been gleaned of its brightest bits and other new original comedy lines, music situations and characters have been interpolated into this season's version of one of the funniest farce comedies ever presented. At the opera house Thursday night.

POTTERY NEWS

A Pittsburg paper quotes A. M. Moreland, of the Union Potteries company, as saying concerning the new American Potteries company, of which he is president:

"They told me their proposition and asked me to go in. I told them I would on certain conditions. They can accept them or not. I can build a pottery in Trenton to handle the eastern trade. If they want the work to be done in their potteries so much the better. I am going after the eastern trade and do not care to run 12 kilns if I can run 100. I propose to work on business lines and have more orders now than I can handle. I do not need to cut prices or to take advantage of the workmen. I am willing to pay for everything I get and for everything that is done for me. If a man handles more for me than any one else I am willing to pay for it."

"I am in the pottery trade to do business and can back any move I make with $1,000,000 or $1,500,000. They told me I could not do certain things, but I am doing them and will easily cover the cost of the trial by the end of the year. I was told there was money in the pottery business and I believe it. I can see a way of getting it out by applying business principles."

A change will be made in the office force of the D. E. McNicol within the next few days. It has been said that Albert Corns, who took the position formerly held by Charles Surles, will be sent to the Smith-McNicol at Wellsville where where he will assume the management of the plant. James Patterson has been looking after a portion of the office business of this factory, but his duties will be assumed by Mr. Corns while Mr. Patterson will be assigned to another part of the factory. John McNicol will be given the position vacated by Mr. Corns, but the individual who will take McNicol's place has not been named. Each change is in the shape of a promotion, a policy followed by this company for years.

The statement has been sent out from Trenton that arrangements have been made for the purchase of the charter of the old American Potteries company under which the new concern will operate and under the same name. It is expected that the details will have been completed by next week. A. M. Moreland, formerly president of the Union Potteries company, is president of the American Potteries company, while John Burgess, of the International Pottery company, is treasurer. Other officers have not yet been elected.

Within the past five years potters' sponges have advanced 80 per cent in price, caused mainly by the scarcity of the article. An increase of 10 per cent was made here three months ago. In years past sponges were gathered close to the coasts, but now they are found in deeper water, and are much harder to procure than in former years. This has caused the useful article to the clay worker to be more costly.

The erection of the decorating plant of John D. Boyd & Co., of Trenton, which was burned to the ground last fall, has been completed. It is one of the most spacious manufacturing establishments in the city. Operations began last week, 80 hands being employed at the start.

The United States Pottery at Wellsville is building bottoms for four down draught kilns for biscuit firing. The only other Ohio plant using down draught kilns is in Akron, and the work of the Wellsville kilns will be watched with considerable interest.

The death last week of Leon A. Berod, at his home in Trenton, removes from the field of art decorating one of the most talented men in the United States. He died suddenly of heart trouble. He came from France about 20 years ago.

WOMAN MAKES CHARGES

AGAINST A MARRIED MAN OF THE WEST END.

The Accused Strenuously Denies His Guilt—Requisition Papers Demanded.

An affidavit filed in Squire W. C. Johnston's court at Chester resulted in the arrest this morning of a well known married man residing in the West End on the charge of assault and battery with criminal intent.

Mrs. Annie Barker, wife of an employee of the Chester mill, filed the charge in Justice Johnston's court last Saturday, but because the defendant is a resident of Ohio it was necessary for the woman to file a second affidavit. She did so this morning in Justice McCarron's court and Contable Powell soon after placed the accused man under arrest.

He was taken before Magistrate McCarron, when he refused to go to West Virginia without requisition papers. He strenuously denied his guilt and stated that he feared if he consented to go before the Chester magistrate evidence would be introduced against him which would convict him. He was placed under $500 bond to appear for trial this evening. The bond was promptly furnished.

According to the statements of Mrs. Barker to Justice McCarron it is evident that the man she accuses is not guilty of all she alleges. She said that while working about her home the accused man asked her for a drink of water and that after she had given it to him he seized her about the waist, drawing her on his lap and kissed her.

Aside from giving her a squeeze the woman herself admitted that the young man did not do anything wrong. However, she insisted on his arrest and swore that he tried to overpower her. After the papers had been made out, the woman said she would not have had the action begun only because, as she alleged, that the accused circulated slanderous reports about her.

Constable Powell went to Chester at noon and informed Mrs. Barker that the defendant in the case was ready for trial. Some spicy testimony is looked for.

IN CONTRADICTION TO THE STATEMENT MADE LAST WEEK CONCERNING DR. MARSHALL'S EMPLOYING NON-UNION LABOR THE FOLLOWING IS A SECTION OF THE SPECIFICATIONS USED BY HIM WHEN BUILDING THE HOUSES:

WELLSVILLE

WELLSVILLE ELECTION

WAS RATHER TAME, OWING TO FLOOD EXCITEMENT.

Central Committeemen Chosen—The Only Fight Being in the Second Ward.

There was very little interest manifested in the primary election, Saturday. This cannot be attributed to a lack of good citizenship or patriotism on the part of the voters, but instead was due to the perilous condition of homes, business houses and industrial plants, many of which needed the close attention of employers and employees to save them from destruction, owing to the exceeding high stage of the river.

Considering this fact, the number of votes polled (689) was a fair representation for the city. The election of central committeemen for the several wards passed off more quietly than was anticipated, the only warm fight being in the Second ward, where three names had been nominated at a caucus which several prominent Republicans alleged was illegally held and conducted.

The result for the county candidates, given in totals, was: For recorder, White, 418; Turner, 219. Clerk of courts, Hanley, 441; Atchison, 173. Commissioner, Boyd, 270; Carnes 180; Kannel, 161.

The city central committeemen elected were: First ward, Joshua Halliday, Blair Burchard and Joseph Geisse. Second ward, Eli Taylor John Duncan and John W. McQueen. Third ward, Charles R. McGregor, E. S. Martin and George Sutton. Fourth ward, Emmett McKenzie, C. P. Smith and John Glessner. Fifth ward, Edward Ralston, T. P. Ferguson and George White.

A CURE AND A FEE.

Peculiar Experience of a Doctor With a Business Man.

In conversation one day about the peculiar views that commercial men sometimes entertain about professional services Dr. S. Weir Mitchell told the following story:

"A very wealthy man from the west came to consult me about an attack of vertigo. He said that he had just returned from a trip to Europe, where he had consulted eminent specialists, but that they had failed to afford him any permanent relief. 'A physician in London,' he said, 'asked me why I did not make an attempt to be cured nearer home. I thought on my way out west I would stop over to see you.' 'Has any physician you have visited looked into your ears?' I asked. 'No,' was his reply.

"I made an examination of his ears, removed some wax and a substance that appeared to be hardened remnants of cotton wool. I sent him away then and told him to come again in a day or two. He did so.

"Well," he exclaimed, 'I am cured. How much do I owe you?' 'About $50,' I replied.

"As he drew a check he asked, 'Did you know when you first examined my ears that you could cure me?' 'When I told him that I had a very fair conviction that I could, he said: 'Well, you are a blundered fool. You should have said to me: 'I think I can cure you, and I will do so for $10,000. No cure, no pay.' You would have got your money without a murmur.' 'Oh,' I said, 'if you feel that way about it there are several little charities in which I am interested, and—' 'No, no,' he interrupted, 'that is not business. I have my cure, and you have the price you asked. The transaction is closed.'"

Brass In England In Chaucer's Time.

A metal resembling brass, but said to have been superior in quality, was known in England as "maslin" as early as the time of Chaucer, and in the reign of Henry VIII. an act of parliament was passed prohibiting the export of brass out of England. Whether the earlier monumental brasses still to be found in our churches were made originally in England is not absolutely certain, the probability, according to some antiquaries, being that they were of French or Belgian workmanship.—Chambers' Journal.

THE HOUSE HUNTERS.

The men who go out gunning No more are to the front. For they have passed the season. When they're allowed to hunt, But many sharp-eyed women. New much attention claim. For they are daily hunting. And houses are their game.

They do not seek the forests. For right in town they stay. Where they can hunt in safety. From dawn till close of day. No guns are they requiring. As they pursue their quest. For little lists of dwellings. Absorb their interest.

An early start they're making And with their faces set So that the line of vision Will take in each "To Let." And often in the distance A hope before them looms. But to their disappointment The sign is "Furnished Rooms."

The journey they're resuming. And up and down each street They go until they're weary. Especially their feet. Day after day they travel Along the same old route. And rarely do they notice A dwelling that will suit.

The season's just commencing. And soon there'll be a throng Of hunters thus patrolling The streets the whole day long. By many soon will weary And in their old homes stay. Where they'll be free from troubles That come on moving day. —Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A THIEF AMONG THE ANGELS

Spurgeon Corrected His Opinion of What He Might Do.

One day the mayor of Cambridge, who had tried to curb Mr. Spurgeon's tendencies to sensationalism, inquired of him if he had really told his congregation that if a thief got into heaven he would begin picking the angels' pockets.

"Yes, sir," the young preacher replied, "I told them that if it were possible for an ungodly man to go to heaven without having his nature changed he would be none the better for being there, and then, by way of illustration, I said that were a thief to get in among the glorified he would remain a thief still, and he would go around the place picking the angels' pockets."

"But, my dear young friend," asked the mayor seriously, "don't you know that the angels haven't any pockets?" "No, sir," replied young Spurgeon, with equal gravity, "I did not know that, but I am glad to be assured of the fact from a gentleman who does know. I will take care to put it all right the first opportunity I get."

The next Monday morning Spurgeon walked into the mayor's place of business and said to him cheerfully, "I set that matter right yesterday, sir."

"What matter?" he inquired.

"Why, about the angels' pockets."

"What did you say?"

"Oh, sir, I just told the people I was sorry to say that I had made a mistake the last time I preached to them, but that I had met a gentleman, the mayor of Cambridge, who had assured me that the angels had no pockets, so I must correct what I had said, as I did not want anybody to go away with a false notion about heaven. I would therefore say that if a thief got among the angels without having his nature changed he would try to steal the feathers out of their wings!"—Homiletic Review.

Black Mirrors.

Crystal gazing is still popular, but the very latest thing in use is a black mirror, in which the sibyls say they can see many things. These little black mirrors come from India, where a spot of ink has always been a favorite vehicle for divination. The native boy who has "the second sight" is told to look fixedly at a spot of ink, which is poured into his hand. The black mirror is said to be every bit as good as the ink, and it is certainly more cleanly. It is made of a piece of black glass set in a wooden frame and is small enough to be held inside the hand.—London Chronicle.

Effects of Pepper.

A writer on foods declares that pepper is a vegetable poison, a stimulant, but in no sense a food; a substance nonusable by the vital organs and therefore to be thrown out of the vital domain.

Red or black pepper is a prolific cause of enlargement of the blood vessels and ultimately of disease of the heart. Its immediate effect is to create increased action, not only of the capillaries, causing temporary congestion and even inflammation of the mucous surfaces, but also of the organs which secrete the digestive fluids. Its ultimate effect is to weaken and deaden these organs by repeated stimulation to abnormal action. It also impairs or destroys the nerves of taste in the mouth, together with the gastric or other nerves which aid in the process of digestion.

When these are weakened by stimulants, the functions themselves are necessarily impaired, and confirmed dyspepsia, with its attendant train of bad symptoms, brings up the rear.

HORSES OF VENICE.

Actual Count Increases the Number to Fifteen.

It is a popular joke to say that there are but six horses in Venice, four over the portico of St. Mark's cathedral and two bronze animals of heroic size, one bestrode by Victor Emmanuel and the other by General Colleone. But this is a mistake. There are four other horses, also of bronze, in the Church of St. John and St. Paul, and quite a number of plaster and marble in the different public buildings, making altogether at least fifteen or sixteen. Ruskin and other competent critics have declared the statue of Colleone to be the best equestrian monument ever cast in bronze. It was designed and cast by Andrea Verrocchio, painter, sculptor, jeweler, engraver, poet and musician, a man of infinite genius, whose greatest fame lies in the fact that he was the instructor of the greatest artists of all centuries—Michael Angelo, Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci. The statue of Victor Emmanuel is not so highly thought of.

The horses on the top of St. Mark's are famous and have had a trying experience. They date back to the prehistoric age and are supposed to be the work of a Greek artist named Lyssippus and designed for a sculptured chariot. They were taken to Rome during the empire and first used as ornaments upon a triumphal arch erected by Nero and afterward by Trajan. The Emperor Constantine took them from Rome to Constantinople, where the Doge Dandolo seized them as loot and brought them to Venice. When Napoleon entered the city in 1797, he had them taken down from the roof of the cathedral and shipped them in wagons over the Alps to Paris. They served as ornaments upon the triumphal arch in the Place du Carrousel till 1815, when Emperor Francis I. of Austria redeemed them, and they were replaced, at his expense, where they now stand. These ponderous animals are of pure copper, and each weighs about two tons. They were formerly gilded, but the gold has been worn off by the weather, and the verdigris which has accumulated upon the copper gives them a rich green tint.—William E. Curtis in Chicago Herald.

WELLSVILLE

WELLSVILLE ELECTION

Central Committeemen Chosen—The Only Fight Being in the Second Ward.

There was very little interest manifested in the primary election, Saturday. This cannot be attributed to a lack of good citizenship or patriotism on the part of the voters, but instead was due to the perilous condition of homes, business houses and industrial plants, many of which needed the close attention of employers and employees to save them from destruction, owing to the exceeding high stage of the river.

Considering this fact, the number of votes polled (689) was a fair representation for the city. The election of central committeemen for the several wards passed off more quietly than was anticipated, the only warm fight being in the Second ward, where three names had been nominated at a caucus which several prominent Republicans alleged was illegally held and conducted.

The result for the county candidates, given in totals, was: For recorder, White, 418; Turner, 219. Clerk of courts, Hanley, 441; Atchison, 173. Commissioner, Boyd, 279; Carnes, 180; Kannal, 161.

The city central committeemen elected were: First ward, Joshua Halliday, Blair Burchard and Joseph Geisse. Second ward, Eli Taylor, John Duncan and John W. McQueen. Third ward, Charles R. McGregor, E. S. Martin and George Sutton. Fourth ward, Emmett McKenzie, C. P. Smith and John Glessner. Fifth ward, Edward Ralston, T. P. Ferguson and George White.

A CURE AND A FEE.

Peculiar Experience of a Doctor With a Business Man.

In conversation one day about the peculiar views that commercial men sometimes entertain about professional services Dr. S. Weir Mitchell told the following story:

"A very wealthy man from the west came to consult me about an attack of vertigo. He said that he had just returned from a trip to Europe, where he had consulted eminent specialists, but that they had failed to afford him any permanent relief. 'A physician in London,' he said, 'asked me why I did not make an attempt to be cured nearer home. I thought on my way out west I would stop over to see you.'

"'Has any physician you have visited looked into your ears?' I asked.

"'No,' was his reply.

"'I made an examination of his ears, removed some wax and a substance that appeared to be hardened remnants of cotton wool. I sent him away then and told him to come again in a day or two. He did so.

"'Well,' he exclaimed, 'I am cured. How much do I owe you?'

"'About $50,' I replied.

"'As he drew a check he asked, 'Did you know when you first examined my ears that you could cure me?'

"'When I told him that I had a very fair conviction that I could, he said: 'Well, you are a blanked fool. You should have said to me: 'I think I can cure you, and I will do so for $10,000. No cure, no pay.' You would have got your money without a murmur.'

"'Oh,' I said, 'if you feel that way about it there are several little charities in which I am interested, and—'

BRASS IN ENGLAND IN CHAUCER'S TIME.

A metal resembling brass, but said to have been superior in quality, was known in England as "maslin" as early as the time of Chaucer, and in the reign of Henry VIII. an act of parliament was passed prohibiting the export of brass out of England. Whether the earlier monumental brasses still to be found in our churches were made originally in England is not absolutely certain, the probability, according to some antiquaries, being that they were of French or Belgian workmanship.—Chambers' Journal.

THE HOUSE HUNTERS.

The men who go out gunning No more are to the front. For they have passed the season. When they're allowed to hunt, From dawn till close of day, For they are daily hunting, And houses are their game.

They do not seek the forests, For right in town they stay, Where they can hunt in safety From dawn till close of day. No guns are they requiring, As they pursue their quest, For little lists of dwellings Absorb their interest.

An early start they're making And with their faces set So that the line of vision 'Will take in each "To Let." And often in the distance A hope before them looms, But to their disappointment The sign is "Furnished Rooms."

The journey they're resuming And up and down each street They go until they're weary, Especially their feet. Day after day they travel Along the same old route, And rarely do they notice A dwelling that will suit.

The season's just commencing, And soon there'll be a throng Of hunters thus patrolling The streets the whole day long. But many soon will weary And in their old homes stay, Where they'll be free from troubles That come on moving day. —Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A THIEF AMONG THE ANGELS

Spurgeon Corrected His Opinion of What He Might Do.

One day the mayor of Cambridge, who had tried to curb Mr. Spurgeon's tendencies to sensationalism, inquired of him if he had really told his congregation that if a thief got into heaven he would begin picking the angels' pockets.

"Yes, sir," the young preacher replied, "I told them that if it were possible for an ungodly man to go to heaven without having his nature changed he would be none the better for being there, and then, by way of illustration, I said that were a thief to get in among the glorified he would remain a thief still, and he would go around the place picking the angels' pockets."

"But, my dear young friend," asked the mayor seriously, "don't you know that the angels haven't any pockets?" "No, sir," replied young Spurgeon, with equal gravity, "I did not know that, but I am glad to be assured of the fact from a gentleman who does know. I will take care to put it all right the first opportunity I get."

"What matter?" he inquired.

"Why, about the angels' pockets."

"What did you say?"

"Oh, sir, I just told the people I was sorry to say that I had made a mistake the last time I preached to them, but that I had met a gentleman, the mayor of Cambridge, who had assured me that the angels had no pockets, so I must correct what I had said, as I did not want anybody to go away with a false notion about heaven. I would therefore say that if a thief got among the angels without having his nature changed he would try to steal the feathers out of their wings!"—Homiletic Review.

Black Mirrors.

Crystal gazing is still popular, but the very latest thing in use is a black mirror, in which the sibyls say they can see many things. These little black mirrors come from India, where a spot of ink has always been a favorite vehicle for divination. The native boy who has "the second sight" is told to look fixedly at a spot of ink, which is poured into his hand. The black mirror is said to be every bit as good as the ink, and it is certainly more cleanly. It is made of a piece of black glass set in a wooden frame and is small enough to be held inside the hand.—London Chronicle.

Effects of Pepper.

A writer on foods declares that pepper is a vegetable poison, a stimulant, but in no sense a food; a substance nonusable by the vital organs and therefore to be thrown out of the vital domain.

Red or black pepper is a prolific cause of enlargement of the blood vessels and ultimately of disease of the heart. Its immediate effect is to create increased action, not only of the capillaries, causing temporary congestion and even inflammation of the mucous surfaces, but also of the organs which secrete the digestive fluids. Its ultimate effect is to weaken and deaden these organs by repeated stimulation to abnormal action. It also impairs or destroys the nerves of taste in the mouth, together with the gastric or other nerves which aid in the process of digestion.

When these are weakened by stimulants, the functions themselves are necessarily impaired, and confirmed dyspepsia, with its attendant train of bad symptoms, brings up the rear.

HORSES OF VENICE.

Actual Count Increases the Number to Fifteen.

It is a popular joke to say that there are but six horses in Venice, four over the portico of St. Mark's cathedral and two bronze animals of heroic size, one bestrode by Victor Emmanuel and the other by General Colleone. But this is a mistake. There are four other horses, also of bronze, in the Church of St. John and St. Paul, and quite a number of plaster and marble in the different public buildings, making altogether at least fifteen or sixteen. Ruskin and other competent critics have declared the statue of Colleone to be the best equestrian monument ever cast in bronze. It was designed and cast by Andrea Verrocchio, painter, sculptor, jeweler, engraver, poet and musician, a man of infinite genius, whose greatest fame lies in the fact that he was the instructor of the greatest artists of all centuries—Michael Angelo, Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci. The statue of Victor Emmanuel is not so highly thought of.

The horses on the top of St. Mark's are famous and have had a trying experience. They date back to the prehistoric age and are supposed to be the work of a Greek artist named Lyssippus and designed for a sculptured chariot. They were taken to Rome during the empire and first used as ornaments upon a triumphal arch erected by Nero and afterward by Trajan. The Emperor Constantine took them from Rome to Constantinople, where the Doge Dandolo seized them as loot and brought them to Venice. When Napoleon entered the city in 1797, he had them taken down from the roof of the cathedral and shipped them in wagons over the Alps to Paris. They served as ornaments upon the triumphal arch in the Place du Carrousel till 1815, when Emperor Francis I. of Austria redeemed them, and they were replaced, at his expense, where they now stand. These ponderous animals are of pure copper, and each weighs about two tons. BATTLE STORY TOLD

The Prince by Gen. Boynton, As He Viewed Historic Field, From Lookout Mountain.

NEGROES SANG FOR HENRY.

Demonstrations of Friendliness in the South and in Indiana—Left Indianapolis Last Night For St. Louis. Enthusiasm Over Admiral Evans.

Indianapolis, March 3.—Prince Henry, of Prussia, went up Lookout mountain yesterday and after viewing the ground where the Union and Confederate armies met in conflict and hearing afresh the story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west. Leaving Chattanooga over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, his train ran through a corner of Alabama and then turning to the north hurried across Tennessee, with a short stop at Nashville; through Kentucky, with brief stays at Louisville and Bowling Green, and up into Indiana for another brief halt at Indianapolis. At Indianapolis the course was changed to the westward again, and on the tracks of the Vandalia line his train last night was on the reach for St. Louis. His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to hear them sing at Nashville and was greatly pleased at the experience. It was the Glee Club of Fiske university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

People Gathered at Stations.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people presented the prince with a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis. At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans as well, and at several points after they had seen and cheered the prince the people called for the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour and as he was leaving Nashville he said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner, and I very deeply appreciate it. I wish they might all know how thankful I am."

Heard Negroes Sing.

Nashville, Tenn., March 3.—Prince Henry, of Prussia, spent 15 minutes in Nashville yesterday afternoon, arriving over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road at 2:30 o'clock, and departing over the Louisville and Nashville for Louisville at 2:45. Ten thousand men, women and children crowded the Union station and railroad yards for a sight of the royal visitor and accorded him a most cordial reception. The prince did not leave his car, but from the back platform smiled his acknowledgments of the demonstrations in his honor. He made no speech, a hearty "Thank you," "Thank you," being in substance

MILITARISM VERSUS COMMERCIALISM

By W. BOURKE COCKRAN

HIS nation has been a world power—a world power of surpassing value to the civilization of the world. It has assumed the primacy of civilization because from the very hour of its birth it has been devoted unswervingly to justice.

I BELIEVE THAT THIS COUNTRY IS COMMERCIAL, THAT THIS IS A COMMERCIAL AGE, THAT COMMERCIALISM IS PREDOMINANT; BUT, FAR FROM REGRETTING, I GLORY IN IT.

The object of every war that was ever waged, at least in the old world, was plunder—that is to say, profit. Vanquished countries are despoiled more scientifically, but more successfully, by tribute. MILITARISM IS THE PURSUIT OF PROFIT BY PLUNDER; COMMERCIALISM IS THE PURSUIT OF PROFIT BY INDUSTRY. No fortune, however great, but was produced by peaceful pursuits. America has given a shining lesson to all the world for the benefit of all ages. It has taught that the pathway to advantage is through honesty and justice and not through violence and plunder.

In his reply to the welcoming address of Mayor J. M. Head. During the stop here, the desire expressed by the prince to hear some of the old plantation negro songs of the south was gratified, the negro jubilee singers from Fisk university singing three of those tuneful melodies to the manifest enjoyment of the prince. One of the singers was a member of the organization when it made a tour of Europe, some years ago, and having been told this, Prince Henry, after the first song, reached over and shook hands with her, making reference to the visit to Berlin.

Train Was Delayed Saturday.

Cincinnati, March 3.—A more wretched day could not have been picked out for the royal journey across Pennsylvania and Ohio Saturday. The special train, which left Washington at midnight over the Pennsylvania railroad, encountered many vexatious delays due to the heavy floods in the Allegheny river.

At Pittsburgh formal greetings were exchanged between the prince and the committee, and a less formal chat followed, in which the royal visitor's suite and all the local wellcomers took part. The prince expressed himself as sensibly impressed with the signs and tokens of industry and prosperity in the country he had already traversed.

"This region is the backbone of American enterprise," declared one of the Pittsburgh committee.

"Indeed," laughed Prince Henry, "this backbone promises never to break."

At Columbus, the next stop, the prince found it possible to drive as far as the capital with the two committees of the Ohio legislature and of Columbus citizens upon whom the honor of entertaining him devolved. He and Governor Nash exchanged brief speeches.

Germans Sing and Cheer.

Here in Cincinnati the German societies took a prominent part in the prince's reception. All the people from "over the Rhine," as the more distinctly German section of this city is called, seemed to have gathered at the station to sing "Hell Dir" and shout "Dreimal Hoch!" The prince, in addressing their spokesmen told the German-Americans substantially as he had told their brethren in New York that the Fatherland expected them to be as good American patriots as they would have been Germans if they were "at home." Formal ceremonies of welcome by the city officials were followed by a general reception, in which leading citizens were introduced to the prince, who conversed affably and with interest with many of them on general subjects.

Pittsburgh, March 3.—The most important feature of the trip over the mountains occurred shortly after daylight Saturday, when the prince, in accordance with his previously announced intention, sat for an hour in the cab of the engine while it sped through gorges and over trestles.

At Altoona the special made an unexpected stop of ten minutes. A large crowd gathered, and there were repeated cheers for the prince. A band serenaded him.

Making Errors.

A Massachusetts business firm prints this paragraph at the top of its letter heads: "Errors—we make them; so does every one. We will cheerfully correct them if you will write to us. Try to write good naturedly if you can, but write to us anyway. Do not complain to some one else first or let the matter pass. We want the first opportunity to make right any injustice that we may do." The little sermon deserves a wide audience. Few people have not had occasion at some time in their lives to regret the sending of a harsh or hasty note of complaint. It may be necessary to assert one's rights in subsequent letters, but there is no better rule of correspondence than to make the first one good natured.—Youth's Companion.

A Cure For Scald Head.

I have heard my grandmother say she had cured many a scald head by taking pure pine tar and enough lard to make an ointment when melted together so the tar won't stick, then keep the head as clean as possible and oil with the ointment. She said she had seen it cure heads when the matter had eaten scars in the neck.—Detroit Free Press.

HEALTH VERSUS STRENGTH

A Good Stomach Is Worth More Than Muscular Power.

The strong man was doing some of his most sensational "stunts." Evidently his performance was free from trickery. The muscles spoke for that, and there were ease and enjoyment in all his movements.

"What a splendid fellow!" exclaimed a college student in a front row to his older companion. "I'd give all I expect ever to know of the classics in exchange for that physique. Just think what it means—unlimited endurance and strength. With that and a fair share of brains, there isn't anything a man couldn't accomplish."

The older man smiled at the youngster's enthusiasm.

"You're doing very well as it is," he said. "The battle may generally be to the strong and skillful, but it isn't just muscular strength that counts. To tell you the truth, you've inherited something that is worth more to you than all the mere muscle you could put on in a lifetime. I mean your stomach."

"Yes, of course; that's important, but—"

"It's everything, my boy. Now, suppose I should tell you that that big fellow up there is in greater danger of collapse than you are likely to be if you take fair care of yourself and exercise in moderation."

"How is that possible? He is the picture of health and strength."

"And what do you say to this fellow?" asked the physician, drawing a photograph from his pocket. It was the likeness of an athlete not much the physical inferior of the strong man.

"This chap," continued the medical expert, "came to me for treatment recently. He needed it. The flesh was literally falling off him. He was losing a pound a day. You see, he had suddenly collapsed."

"What was the trouble?"

"Stomach. I'm not telling you anything new, but it's astonishing how much an elemental truth is overlooked. A man is no stronger than his stomach."

"If your stomach isn't far better than that of most Americans, look out! This patient of mine had changed his food, and it came near costing him his life. So don't be too quick to envy the strong man, and go ahead with your classics, not forgetting twenty minutes or so a day of well directed exercise."—New York Herald.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Onions may be readily transplanted if growing too thick.

Weeds should not be allowed to grow or crusts to form around young fruit trees.

Do not buy any kind of fruit trees or plants simply because they are cheap.

With all transplanting it is important to see that the soil is well filled in around the roots.

Prune spurs to one developed bud, for the nearer the old wood the higher flavored the fruit.

A weak solution of poultry droppings is a wonderful stimulant of plant growth. It may be used weekly with good effect.

Only well rotted manure should be applied around the grapevines. Fresh manure excites the growth, but does not mature it.

Quince trees should be mulched as a protection against extreme heat and cold, as the roots are small and usually near the surface.

In selecting trees to grow as a wind-break it is quite an item to have them of a close growing habit and of as nearly perpetual foliage as possible. Plant a double row.

Turkish Delight.

The oriental sweet called "Turkish delight" that travelers in the east are sure to taste is not difficult to make.

Have ready an ounce of gelatin, preferably the clear imported sheet variety, which has been soaked for two hours in a very little cold water. Bring to a boil in a porcelain pot a pound of granulated sugar and half a cupful of cold water, adding the gelatin, and boil till the mixture dropped in cold water can be held in the finger. After it has boiled steadily for fifteen minutes add the juice of one lemon and a tablespoonful of brandy. Pour to cool in a clean tin which has been wet in cold water, cutting the mixture as it stiffens into squares like caramels. Each piece is dusted with powdered sugar or rolled in waxed paper.—New York Post.

No Proof Necessary.

Colonel C. L. Colquhoun of Louisiana was halted on the street one day by a gentleman who evidently did not know him.

"Can you tell me," asked the unknown, "who is the best lawyer in town?"

"I am, sir," replied the colonel without hesitation.

The man looked surprised.

"Excuse me," he said; "I should like to have you prove it."

"Don't have to prove it, sir," thundered the colonel; "I admit it."—New York Times.

BATTLE STORY TOLD

NEGROES SANG FOR HENRY.

Demonstrations of Friendliness in the South and in Indiana—Left Indianapolis Last Night For St. Louis. Enthusiasm Over Admiral Evans.

Indianapolis, March 3.—Prince Henry, of Prussia, went up Lookout mountain yesterday and after viewing the ground where the Union and Confederate armies met in conflict and hearing afresh the story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west. Leaving Chattanooga over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, his train ran through a corner of Alabama and then turning to the north hurried across Tennessee, with a short stop at Nashville, through Kentucky, with brief stays at Louisville and Bowling Green, and up into Indiana for another brief halt at Indianapolis. At Indianapolis the course was changed to the westward again, and on the tracks of the Vandalia line his train last night was on the reach for St. Louis. His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him. He had an opportunity to hear them sing at Nashville and was greatly pleased at the experience. It was the Glee Club of Fiske university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

People Gathered at Stations.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people presented the prince with a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis. At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans as well, and at several points after they had seen and cheered the prince the people called for the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour and as he was leaving Nashville he said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner, and I very deeply appreciate it. I wish they might all know how thankful I am."

Heard Negroes Sing.

Nashville, Tenn., March 3.—Prince Henry, of Prussia, spent 15 minutes in Nashville yesterday afternoon, arriving over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road at 2:30 o'clock, and departing over the Louisville and Nashville for Louisville at 2:45. Ten thousand men, women and children crowded the Union station and railroad yards for a sight of the royal visitor and accorded him a most cordial reception. The prince did not leave his car, but from the back platform smiled his acknowledgments of the demonstrations in his honor. He made no speech, a hearty "Thank you," "Thank you," being in substance

MILITARISM VERSUS COMMERCIALISM

By W. BOURKE COCKRAN

THIS nation has been a world power—a world power of surpassing value to the civilization of the world. It has assumed the primacy of civilization because from the very hour of its birth it has been devoted unswervingly to justice.

I BELIEVE THAT THIS COUNTRY IS COMMERCIAL, THAT THIS IS A COMMERCIAL AGE. THAT COMMERCIALISM IS PREDOMINANT; BUT, FAR FROM REGRETTING, I GLORY IN IT.

The object of every war that was ever waged, at least in the old world, was plunder—that is to say, profit. Vanquished countries are despoiled more scientifically, but more successfully, by tribute. MILITARISM IS THE PURSUIT OF PROFIT BY PLUNDER; COMMERCIALISM IS THE PURSUIT OF PROFIT BY INDUSTRY. No fortune, however great, but was produced by peaceful pursuits. America has given a shining lesson to all the world for the benefit of all ages. It has taught that the pathway to advantage is through honesty and justice and not through violence and plunder.

his reply to the welcoming address of Mayor J. M. Head. During the stop here the desire expressed by the prince to hear some of the old plantation negro songs of the south was gratified, the negro jubilee singers from Fisk university singing three of those tuneful melodies to the manifest enjoyment of the prince. One of the singers was a member of the organization when it made a tour of Europe, some years ago, and having been told this, Prince Henry, after the first song, reached over and shook hands with her, making reference to the visit to Berlin.

Train Was Delayed Saturday.

Cincinnati, March 3.—A more wretched day could not have been picked out for the royal journey across Pennsylvania and Ohio Saturday. The special train, which left Washington at midnight over the Pennsylvania railroad, encountered many vexatious delays due to the heavy floods in the Allegheny river.

At Pittsburgh formal greetings were exchanged between the prince and the committee, and a less formal chat followed, in which the royal visitor's suite and all the local welcomers took part. The prince expressed himself as sensibly impressed with the signs and tokens of industry and prosperity in the country he had already traversed.

"This region is the backbone of American enterprise," declared one of the Pittsburgh committee.

"Indeed," laughed Prince Henry, "this backbone promises never to break."

At Columbus, the next stop, the prince found it possible to drive as far as the capitol with the two committees of the Ohio legislature and of Columbus citizens upon whom the honor of entertaining him devolved. He and Governor Nash exchanged brief speeches.

Germans Sing and Cheer.

Here in Cincinnati the German societies took a prominent part in the prince's reception. All the people from "over the Rhine," as the more distinctly German section of this city is called, seemed to have gathered at the station to sing "Heil Dir" and shout "Dreimal Hoch!" The prince in addressing their spokesmen told the German-Americans substantially as he had told their brethren in New York that the Fatherland expected them to be as good American patriots as they would have been Germans if they were "at home." Formal ceremonies of welcome by the city officials were followed by a general reception, in which leading citizens were introduced to the prince, who conversed affably and with interest with many of them on general subjects.

Pittsburg, March 3.—The most important feature of the trip over the mountains occurred shortly after daylight Saturday, when the prince, in accordance with his previously announced intention, sat for an hour in the cab of the engine while it sped through gorges and over trestles.

At Altoona the special made an unexpected stop of ten minutes. A large crowd gathered, and there were repeated cheers for the prince. A band serenaded him.

Making Errors.

A Massachusetts business firm prints this paragraph at the top of its letter heads: "Errors—we make them; so does every one. We will cheerfully correct them if you will write to us. Try to write good naturedly if you can, but write to us anyway. Do not complain to some one else first or let the matter pass. We want the first opportunity to make right any injustice that we may do." The little sermon deserves a wide audience. Few people have not had occasion at some time in their lives to regret the sending of a harsh or hasty note of complaint. It may be necessary to assert one's rights in subsequent letters, but there is no better rule of correspondence than to make the first one good natured.—Youth's Companion.

A Cure For Scald Head.

I have heard my grandmother say she had cured many a scald head by taking pure pine tar and enough lard to make an ointment when melted together so the tar won't stick, then keep the head as clean as possible and oil with the ointment. She said she had seen it cure heads when the matter had eaten seams in the neck.—Detroit Free Press.

emanations from America had been to foreigners devoted to such discussions. The Irving family, though with a proclivity for letters, were not descendants of a long line of cultivated ancestors, as was often the case with New England authors. Young Washington himself was through his school days at 16 and, though a bookish boy, was also a stroller over Manhattan Island with a keen eye for what was going on and a wistful gaze after the sails that filled away for lands remote.

"The History of New York From the Beginning of the World to the End of the Dutch Dynasty," with its accounts of the unutterable proceedings of Walter the Doubter, the disastrous projects of William the Testy and the chivalric achievements of Peter the Headstrong, came very near being what the author asserted, "the only authentic history of the times that ever hath been or ever will be written." If history is a reproduction of life, as well as a record of events, no better representation of a former age to illustrate and ridicule the ongoings of a later one will likely be made by any successor of Diedrich Knickerbocker. For example:

"Such was the happy reign of Wouter Van Twiller, celebrated in many a long forgotten song as the real golden age, the rest being nothing but counterfeit, copper washed coin. In that delightful period a sweet and holy calm reigned over the whole province. The burghmaster smoked his pipe in peace. The substantial solace of his domestic cares, after her daily toils were done, sat soberly at the door with her arms crossed over her apron of snowy white without being insulted by ribald street walkers or vagabond boys, those unlucky urchins who do so infest our streets, displaying under the roses of youth the thorns and briars of iniquity. Then it was that the lover with ten breeches and damsel with petticoats half a score indulged in all the endearments of virtuous love without fear and without reproach. Happy would it have been for New Amsterdam could it always have existed in this state of blissful ignorance and lovely simplicity; but, alas, the days of childhood are too sweet to last."

"The Sketch-Book of Geoffrey Crayon, Gent." is what its title implies, a collection of short, suggestive outlines of narration and incident struck off with the fidelity to nature and certainty of touch which belong to an accomplished artist. A few masterly strokes reveal much more than themselves and intimate possibilities far beyond the limited range which the author allowed himself. For example, everybody knows how Rip Van Winkle has been expanded by the dramatization to which Joseph Jefferson has given a masterly interpretation, and yet it is a dull imagination which has not seen the vagabond Rip, his dog and gun and tattered spouse and what was left of these after a 20 years' nap as clearly portrayed in suggestive lines of Irving. "He looked round for his gun, but in place of the clean, well oiled fowling piece he found an old firelock lying by him, the barrel incrustated with rust, the lock falling off and the stock worm eaten. He shook his head, shouldered the rusty gun and turned his steps homeward. He had now entered the skirts of the village. A troop of strange children ran at his heels, hooting after him and pointing at his gray beard. The dogs, too, not one of which he recognized for an old acquaintance, barked at him as he passed. Strange names were over the doors, strange faces at the windows—everything was strange." This is a portrayal to whose realism little can be added by brush or the living picture. It may be superbly represented, but it was all there before the ordinary reader, set in simple words, but always the right ones in the right place. "It was with some difficulty that he found the way to his own house, which he approached with silent awe, expecting every moment to hear the shrill voice of Dame Van Winkle. He found the house gone to decay, the roof fallen in, the windows shattered and the doors off the hinges. A half starved dog that looked like a wolf was skulking about it. Rip called him by name, but the cur snarled, showed his teeth and passed on. 'My very dog,' sighed poor Rip, 'has forgotten me!' This seems simple and easy to do. The reader thinks that it is the very way he himself should have described the old fellow if he had seen him. To test the matter, let the habit of Franklin be imitated. Read the story once more and rewrite it; then compare revisions. After this the greater achievement remains of inventing or, if it was an adaptation of a German legend, of adapting the character to the drowsy atmosphere of the Catskills.

The genius which produced this, the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow," and 30 other sketches was instantly recognized in England. Walter Scott's quick appreciation and generous assistance brought the new author into pleasant and profitable relations with the chief publishers of London, and after Scott, Byron and Murray led there was nothing that did not follow. An American had found his place in the fraternity of letters and without bating a jot of his patriotism or sparing the truth in speaking of English prejudices, established himself for five years in the literary metropolis, where he could best do his work and find a market for it.

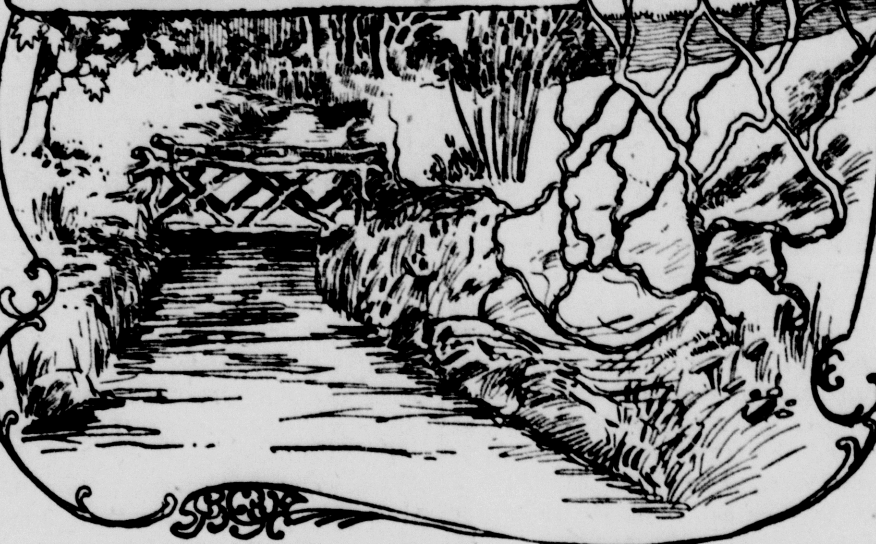

Irving, however, was coming to be a cosmopolite. England did not keep him too long. By 1820 he is in Paris hobnobbing with Thomas Moore, following up the theaters, catching notes of applause from across the channel, then going back to win an English triumph on English soil in his "Bracebridge Hall."

No native could have pictured the life of a country squire more to the satisfaction of all England. There was much in it with which the author himself had sympathy, as well as with the people he describes. As if in half apology to Americans he says, "I can never forget that this is my fatherland, and yet the circumstances under which I have viewed it have been by no means such as were calculated to produce favorable impressions." He then remarks that close observation will often change opinions, hastily formed, of a national character which shows its rough side. Special mention is made of the reception accorded to the essay in "The Sketch-Book" on literary feuds between England and America and the "generous sympathy in every English bosom toward a solitary individual lifting up his voice in a strange land to vindicate the character of his nation."

This indeed is the eminence which Irving occupies, higher than that of being our first man of letters in the order of time. He was a peacemaker in an age of misunderstanding, jealousy and hostility. The ill feeling consequent upon two wars had not wholly subsided. In letters there was independent aspiration on one side, complacent superciliousness and sharp censoriousness on the other. In this very year Sydney Smith contemptuously asked, "Who ever reads an American book?" The one man who was able to reply to the taunt could do it in his "English Writers on America." A few sentences will show the large and generous spirit in which this was done. After observing that impressions of this country had been gained from the worst kind of travelers he remarks that the prosperity founded upon political liberty and the general diffusion of knowledge cannot be overlooked; that it is of more consequence to England than to us that justice be done and resentment allayed; that, "possessing the fountain head whence the literature of the language flows, it is in her power to make it the medium of amiable and magnanimous feeling, a stream where the two nations might meet together and drink in peace and kindness." And to Americans he said: "Let it be the pride of our writers, discarding all feelings of irritation, and disdaining to retaliate the illiberality of British authors, to speak of the English nation without prejudice and with determined candor. While they rebuke the indiscriminating bigotry with which some of our countrymen admire and imitate everything English because it is English, let them frankly point out what is really worthy of approbation." The entire essay shows Irving in the character of a broad minded, fearless dayman between the two countries in a sphere more important than diplomacy. "The mere contests of the sword," he says, "are temporary, but the slanders of the pen pierce to the heart. They rankle longest in the noblest spirit; they dwell ever present in the mind. Trace hostilities to their cause and they will be found to originate in the mischievous effusions of mercenary writers who concoct and circulate the venom that is to inflame the generous and the brave."

Of Irving's later and more pretentious labors a corresponding amount might be said. They were the result of a wish, that came with advancing years, to do more monumental work. After the "Tales of a Traveller" had been thrown off as in his opinion the climax of his lighter diversions, for writing was no task when the mood seized him, he then entered upon the most prolific period of his career at the age of 46. The year 1826 found him at Madrid to begin his "Life of Columbus." This occupied two pleasant years and was succeeded by the "Companions" and this by the "Conquest of Granada" and "The Alhambra" before 1832, when he returned to America after a 17 years' residence in Europe. These larger achievements brought him academic honors from Oxford and the medal of the Loyal Society of Literature, with no end of applause abroad and at home. Then, after ten years of light writing about this and that, tours, recollections, legends and biographies, came the "crowning honor of his life" in the mission to Spain, to be signaled by his crowning work, the "Life of Washington." With the last volume of this he may be said to have ended his days at the Sunnyside retreat on the banks of the river he loved and whose borders he had peopled with legendary beings recalled from the shadowy and dreamy years of the old Dutch dynasty.

FORECAST OF THE HOUSE.

Likely Will Give Most of the Time
This Week to Postoffice Matters.

Washington, March 3.—The house of representatives likely will give most of its time during the present week to postal affairs, beginning to-day with the bill placing the rural free delivery system on the contract basis, and following later with the postoffice appropriation bill. The rural free delivery measure has aroused much controversy and there promises to be an active debate, with considerable doubt as to the passage of the bill. It was the original plan to make the change in the rural delivery system a feature of the postoffice appropriation bill, but as this would have necessitated a special rule the proposition was brought forward in a special bill.

It is expected that debate on the bill, which is to have the right of way until disposed of, will take about two days. The postoffice appropriation bill contains items relating to subsidy for fast mail, which are usually fruitful of much discussion. It is expected that the appropriation bill will occupy all the latter part of the week, although next Friday is set aside for war claims.

COMPREHENSIVE TAX PETITION FILED IN COURT.

Cleveland March 3.—A petition of the most comprehensive type and calculated to search every statute on the law books of Ohio, having any relation to the methods of taxing real estate, was filed in the United States circuit court. Incident to it was the issuing of an order by Judge Wing requiring County Treasurer Lanier

TWIN TROUBLES

They Are Often Together These Days.
They Work Havoc All over
the Country and in East
Liverpool.

Weak, nervous, the digestion out of order. That is what ails a host of people. It comes about in this way. First from overwork or other causes, the nerves are burdened beyond endurance, nerve waste is not replaced, nerve force is weakened. Then the stomach loses its nerve controlling power, and indigestion follows with failing strength. When first Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills came to East Liverpool, people could hardly believe that this great medicine should remove these troubles. Now it is an accepted fact because of its cure of very stubborn cases no other medicine would influence. Mrs. Margaret Tracy, of No. 178 Seventh street, East Liverpool, O. says: "One of my family was very nervous—subject to nervous spells—weak and irritable—could not sleep and the digestion was very poor. I asked the invalid to take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. The result was splendid. The medicine built her up, enriched the blood, made the nerves strong, gave restful sleep and so strengthened the stomach that digestion is perfect. The old time languid, played out feeling has given place to one of strength and energy, and as a result we are more than pleased with the medicine."

Probably Fatal Election Riot.

Hamilton O., March 3.—An election riot occurred at Middleton, this county, Saturday afternoon. The count had been completed and the result given out, when an attempt was made to break into the election room. George LaFayette, a well-known politician and a former attaché of the John Robinson circus, was shot in the abdomen by Police Officer Henry Lawrence, and is thought to be fatally injured.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.
The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. VOLUNTARY GIFTS

Of Money to Campaign Funds,
by the Employees of the Government,

ALL RIGHT, WRITES FOULKE.

But Civil Service Commissioner, Says
the Commission Objects to Coercion
of Employees—Letters Written to Philadelphians.

Washington, March 3.—The attitude of the civil service commission toward the political activity of government employees has been defined in letters Commissioner Foulke has sent to Postmaster McMichael and R. Francis Wood, both of Philadelphia. In his letter to Mr. Wood, the substance of which also is stated in the letter to the postmaster, Mr. Foulke says:

"We object to certain solicitations for contributions, made by those in authority, because they are, in effect, coercing the political action of employees; but would it not also be coercing their political action to tell them that they should not contribute and that they must take no part whatever in a campaign? For myself, I have in years past always given a modest contribution for political purposes, and I shall not cease to do so in the future because I hold office; but I do not intend to give any more or less on that account, and I do not want my example to be construed as an intimation to any employee of this office that he is to give or not to give, or that he is not as free to give to the Democratic fund as he is to the Republican fund, or that he may not as freely give to the faction opposed to me in my own party as to the faction not opposed to me, if he so desires.

Voluntary Contributions All Right.

"As to campaign contributions, it seems to me that the purpose of the law is to see that they are really voluntary and not actually or impliedly coerced; and as to political action and activity, it seems to me the purpose of the law is that a man should be free to do what he likes in office as well as out of it, with the limitation that it must not interfere with his official duties nor in any other way bring scandal upon or impair the efficiency of the branch of the service to which he belongs. In the latter particular any attack made upon that service, or upon the administration of which it would form a part, would necessarily be in derogation of sound discipline. We who are strong believers in the merit system should not take so extreme a view that it could not be sustained in principle and would not be justified by public opinion."

Probable Work of Senate.

Washington, March 3.—In accordance with Saturday's decision the senate will take up the ship subsidy bill today and it will continue to hold its place as the unfinished business until disposed of. There is, however, no disposition for the present to press the matter to the exclusion of all other business, so that it probably will be laid aside temporarily at different times to permit the consideration of other matters, including Senator Hoar's bill for the protection of the president against assault. The legislative appropriation bill will be reported during the week, and will take precedence of the ship bill in its right if Senator Cullom, who will have it in charge, decides to ask the senate to take it up, as he probably will.

The subsidy bill will not be debated for so great a length of time as was the measure of the last congress. There will be a number of speeches on it, however, before it is allowed to go to a vote. Senator Frye, chairman of the committee on commerce, who will have the bill in charge, will explain the measure when it is taken up today. Senator Clay will address the senate from the Democratic point of view, and probably will be followed by Senators Turner, Vest, Mallory and other Democratic senators. Senator Turner has abandoned his announced intention of reviewing President Pro Tem Frye's ruling in the Tillman-McLaurin contempt proceeding and the present indication is that that incident will not receive any further immediate attention.

Then, after ten years of light writing about this and that, tours, recollections, legends and biographies, came the "crowning honor of his life" in the mission to Spain, to be signaled by his crowning work, the "Life of Washington." With the last volume of this he may be said to have ended his days at the Sunnyside retreat on the banks of the river he loved and whose borders he had peopled with legendary beings recalled from the shadowy and dreamy years of the old Dutch dynasty.

FORECAST OF THE HOUSE.

Likely Will Give Most of the Time
This Week to Postoffice Matters.

Washington, March 3.—The house of representatives likely will give most of its time during the present week to postal affairs, beginning to-day with the bill placing the rural free delivery system on the contract basis, and following later with the postoffice appropriation bill. The rural free delivery measure has aroused much controversy and there promises to be an active debate, with considerable doubt as to the passage of the bill. It was the original plan to make the change in the rural delivery system a feature of the postoffice appropriation bill, but as this would have necessitated a special rule the proposition was brought forward in a special bill.

It is expected that debate on the bill, which is to have the right of way until disposed of, will take about two days. The postoffice appropriation bill contains items relating to subsidy for fast mail, which are usually fruitful of much discussion. It is expected that the appropriation bill will occupy all the latter part of the week, although next Friday is set aside for war claims.

COMPREHENSIVE TAX

PETITION FILED IN COURT.

Cleveland March 3.—A petition of the most comprehensive type and calculated to search every statute on the law books of Ohio, having any relation to the methods of taxing real estate, was filed in the United States circuit court. Incident to it was the issuing of an order by Judge Wing requiring County Treasurer Lander

TWIN TROUBLES

They Are Often Together These Days.
They Work Havoc All over
the Country and in East
Liverpool.

Weak, nervous, the digestion out of order. That is what ails a host of people. It comes about in this way. First from overwork or other causes, the nerves are burdened beyond endurance, nerve waste is not replaced, nerve force is weakened. Then the stomach loses its nerve controlling power, and indigestion follows with failing strength. When first Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills came to East Liverpool, people could hardly believe that this great medicine should remove these troubles. Now it is an accepted fact because of its cure of very stubborn cases no other medicine would influence. Mrs. Margaret Tracy, of No. 178 Seventh street, East Liverpool, O., says: "One of my family was very nervous—subject to nervous spells—weak and irritable—could not sleep and the digestion was very poor. I asked the invalid to take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. The result was splendid. The medicine built her up, enriched the blood, made the nerves strong, gave restful sleep and so strengthened the stomach that digestion is perfect. The old time languid, played out feeling has given place to one of strength and energy, and as a result we are more than pleased with the medicine."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

Probably Fatal Election Riot.

Hamilton O., March 3.—An election riot occurred at Middleton, this county, Saturday afternoon. The count had been completed and the result given out, when an attempt was made to break into the election room. George Lafayette, a well-known politician and a former attaché of the John Robinson circus, was shot in the abdomen by Police Officer Henry Lawrence, and is thought to be fatally injured.

A Suspicious Case.

Greene—Do you suppose Ketchum is honest, or has he designs on me, do you think?
Brown—Why, what has he been doing now?
Greene—He borrowed an umbrella at my house last night, and he returned it the first thing this morning. It looks suspicious, don't you think?—Boston Transcript.

An Obliging Husband.

"Why do you offer such a large reward for the return of that ugly dog?"
"To please my wife."
"But such a reward is sure to bring him back."
"No, it won't. He's dead."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. VOLUNTARY GIFTS

Of Money to Campaign Funds,
by the Employees of the Government,

ALL RIGHT, WRITES FOULKE.

But Civil Service Commissioner, Says
the Commission Objects to Coercion
of Employees—Letters Written to Philadelphians.

Washington, March 3.—The attitude of the civil service commission toward the political activity of government employees has been defined in letters Commissioner Foulke has sent to Postmaster McMichael and R. Francis Wood, both of Philadelphia. In his letter to Mr. Wood, the substance of which also is stated in the letter to the postmaster, Mr. Foulke says:

"We object to certain solicitations for contributions, made by those in authority, because they are, in effect, coercing the political action of employees; but would it not also be coercing their political action to tell them that they should not contribute and that they must take no part whatever in a campaign? For myself, I have in years past always given a modest contribution for political purposes, and I shall not cease to do so in the future because I hold office; but I do not intend to give any more or less on that account, and I do not want my example to be construed as an intimation to any employee of this office that he is to give or not to give, or that he is not as free to give to the Democratic fund as he is to the Republican fund, or that he may not as freely give to the faction opposed to me in my own party as to the faction not opposed to me, if he so desires."

Voluntary Contributions All Right.

"As to campaign contributions, it seems to me that the purpose of the law is to see that they are really voluntary and not actually or impliedly coerced; and as to political action and activity, it seems to me the purpose of the law is that a man should be free to do what he likes in office as well as out of it, with the limitation that it must not interfere with his official duties nor in any other way bring scandal upon or impair the efficiency of the branch of the service to which he belongs. In the latter particular any attack made upon that service, or upon the administration of which it would form a part, would necessarily be in derogation of sound discipline. We who are strong believers in the merit system should not take so extreme a view that it could not be sustained in principle and would not be justified by public opinion."

Probable Work of Senate.

Washington, March 3.—In accordance with Saturday's decision the senate will take up the ship subsidy bill today and it will continue to hold its place as the unfinished business until disposed of. There is, however, no disposition for the present to press the matter to the exclusion of all other business, so that it probably will be laid aside temporarily at different times to permit the consideration of other matters, including Senator Hoar's bill for the protection of the president against assault. The legislative appropriation bill will be reported during the week, and will take precedence of the ship bill in its right if Senator Cullom, who will have it in charge, decides to ask the senate to take it up, as he probably will.

The subsidy bill will not be debated for so great a length of time as was the measure of the last congress. There will be a number of speeches on it, however, before it is allowed to go to a vote. Senator Frye, chairman of the committee on commerce, who will have the bill in charge, will explain the measure when it is taken up today. Senator Clay will address the senate from the Democratic point of view, and probably will be followed by Senators Turner, Vest, Mallory and other Democratic senators. Senator Turner has abandoned his announced intention of reviewing President Pro Tem Frye's ruling in the Tillman-McLaurin contempt proceeding and the present indication is that that incident will not receive any further immediate attention.

The Quickest Cough Eradicator.

(From the Shortsville, N. Y., Enterprise.)

This is the month that one takes cold so easily and quickly—secures that hacking cough, which is so persistently disagreeable as we know by personal experience. And we also know that the quickest eradicator of such cough has been Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and which has been our staunch standby for several years. This is no paid "puff," but merely a just recognition for an invaluable remedy for for coughs, colds, and all lung affections, and like the editor, it has scores of other staunch friends in this town. This remedy is for sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

the West End is estimated at not less than $2,500. This district is always inconvenienced during floods and precautions are taken before hand when high water is expected.

The street railway company was compelled to stop operating cars on Saturday afternoon from the Second street switch to the west end of Wellsville. This was stopped at 3:30 o'clock. Supt. Thomas Reed has stated the line would be placed in full operation as soon as water was off the tracks. From Saturday evening until late this afternoon cars were operated from the East End terminus to a point west of Mulberry street, and from the Second street switch to the West End switch. There are a number of poles down between this city and the East End, but these will be replaced as soon as the water is low enough to permit work to be done. All the cars that were in the barn at the power house were taken to a point east of the trestle, near Ralston Crossing, where they will remain indefinitely. The line car and several other passenger cars were taken to East Market street, where they were stored on the Calcutta road tracks.

The engines at the power house were not stopped, and the light machinery was operated as usual, both Saturday and Sunday nights. The high water, however, caused some little damage to the new foundation recently built at the power house for the new boiler, but this can be speedily repaired.

Orders were issued by the C. & P. Railroad company yesterday to agents along this part of the river division to sell no tickets below Toronto, as the tracks at many places between that place and Bellaire were under water. Below Toronto, the road was in fair shape, considering conditions. It is expected trains will be running to Bellaire by evening.

Foreman Timothy Hickey and Supt. Thomas Reed this morning commenced to clear away the debris from the street railway tracks near Thompson's pottery. In some places there was from 6 to 18 inches of mud on the tracks, and the clearing is slow work.

A force of 20 men are working on the road between Thompson's and the power house. The water will be off the tracks by evening, but the road-bed will have to be repaired before cars can be operated.

The Laughlin Pottery company yesterday purchased 18 pairs of gum boots, which were given to as many employees in order that rapid work could be done in cleaning the kiln sheds. In the rear glost kiln shed at this pottery the water was 5 1/2 feet deep, which was several feet above the benches.

No ware was lost in any of the river potteries, all this being moved to upper floors before the water entered their plants.

The fires were lighted in the boilers at the pump station at 4 o'clock this morning and soon afterward the large pumps were started. By tomorrow it is thought the water supply will be the same as usual. There was 6 feet and 1 inch of water in the pump station when the river was at its height, and this morning there was over 2 feet on the floor.

The high water caused a suspension of work at Walker, but today arrangements were being made to start the plant tomorrow.

Babb's island was completely submerged. The McCullom family, residing there, after taking their household goods to upper floors, came to the city in skiffs.

MANY FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS

TWO, RENDERED DESTITUTE, CALLED ON CITY FOR AID.

All the Lowland of Wellsville Was Submerged And Great Damage Done.

The visitation of the flood in Wellsville resulted, not only in the loss of thousands of dollars to property owners, but rendered, for the time being, dozens of families homeless.

The lowland districts of the city were completely submerged and consequently the entire city was surrounded by water. But few people living in the east and west ends of the city escaped the discomfort of moving. The residents of Coal, Wood, Commerce and adjoining streets were also victims of the merciless water. Not until 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon did the people of these districts become alarmed. At that time water commenced pouring out of the storm sewers and in a period of three hours indications pointed strongly to a flood surpassing the historical disaster of 1884.

Skiffs, rafts, johnboats and small barges were used to a great advantage in the moving of household effects. Many did not move from their houses, but were compelled to move their first floor belongings to the second story. Two families by the name of Roach and Strickline, living on Coal street, were rendered absolutely destitute and called upon the city officials for support.

The water had caught them unawares and sneaked into their homes before anything could be removed.

The police provided quarters for them in the city hall. The potteries and brick yards in the West End suffered a heavy loss, as did the industrial plants located in the East End.

Throughout the whole of Sunday scores of people trudged around the city viewing the rather picturesque scenes. The observant throng seemed not to realize the unhappiness resulting from the flood and many made fun of the unfortunate candidates in which the flooded were placed.

The water began to recede at 7 o'clock Sunday morning and at noon today the only visible signs of a flood were the ruins left behind.

COAL HOLLOW PARENTS PLUNGED IN DEEPEST ANXIETY.

Lads Aged 8, 9 And 11 Have Disappeared From Their Home.

The police of the city were notified this morning that three boys, Dan Bolles, Jr., John and Dave Easton, aged 8, 9 and 11 respectively, are missing from their homes in Coal Hollow. It is said that the last seen of the boys was Sunday morning when they left home ostensibly for Sunday school. All efforts to locate the lads have proven futile and it is feared that they were drowned in the back water which extends out beyond Coal Hollow.

The parents are nearly distracted over the prolonged absence of their children, and sympathizing neighbors have commenced a vigilant search.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE IN CHESTER, MORE IN CONGO.

Loss was light in Chester compared with East Liverpool. No manufacturing suffered. A small barn belonging to John Martin was washed away and a house moved from its foundation. Two families at Mark's run had to move. Congo fared badly. The railroad will not be in operation for some days.

the West End is estimated at not less than $2,500. This district is always inconvenienced during floods and precautions are taken before hand when high water is expected.

The street railway company was compelled to stop operating cars on Saturday afternoon from the Second street switch to the west end of Wellsville. This was stopped at 3:30 o'clock. Supt. Thomas Reed has stated the line would be placed in full operation as soon as water was off the tracks. From Saturday evening until late this afternoon cars were operated from the East End terminus to a point west of Mulberry street, and from the Second street switch to the West End switch. There are a number of poles down between this city and the East End, but these will be replaced as soon as the water is low enough to permit work to be done. All the cars that were in the barn at the power house were taken to a point east of the trestle, near Ralston Crossing, where they will remain indefinitely. The line car and several other passenger cars were taken to East Market street, where they were stored on the Calcutta road tracks.

The engines at the power house were not stopped, and the light machinery was operated as usual, both Saturday and Sunday nights. The high water, however, caused some little damage to the new foundation recently built at the power house for the new boiler, but this can be speedily repaired.

Orders were issued by the C. & P. Railroad company yesterday to agents along this part of the river division to sell no tickets below Toronto, as the tracks at many places between that place and Bellaire were under water. Below Toronto, the road was in fair shape, considering conditions. It is expected trains will be running to Bellaire by evening.

Foreman Timothy Hickey and Supt. Thomas Reed this morning commenced to clear away the debris from the street railway tracks near Thompson's pottery. In some places there was from 6 to 18 inches of mud on the tracks, and the clearing is slow work.

A force of 20 men are working on the road between Thompson's and the power house. The water will be off the tracks by evening, but the road-bed will have to be repaired before cars can be operated.

The Laughlin Pottery company yesterday purchased 18 pairs of gum boots, which were given to as many employees in order that rapid work could be done in cleaning the kiln sheds. In the rear glist kiln shed at this pottery the water was 5 1/2 feet deep, which was several feet above the benches.

No ware was lost in any of the river potteries, all this being moved to upper floors before the water entered their plants.

The fires were lighted in the boilers at the pump station at 4 o'clock this morning and soon afterward the large pumps were started. By tomorrow it is thought the water supply will be the same as usual. There was 6 feet and 1 inch of water in the pump station when the river was at its height, and this morning there was over 2 feet on the floor.

The high water caused a suspension of work at Walker, but today arrangements were being made to start the plant tomorrow.

Babb's island was completely submerged. The McCullom family, residing there, after taking their household goods to upper floors, came to the city in skiffs.

MANY FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS

TWO, RENDERED DESTITUTE, CALLED ON CITY FOR AID.

All the Lowland of Wellsville Was Submerged And Great Damage Done.

The visitation of the flood in Wellsville resulted, not only in the loss of thousands of dollars to property owners, but rendered, for the time being, dozens of families homeless.

The lowland districts of the city were completely submerged and consequently the entire city was surrounded by water. But few people living in the east and west ends of the city escaped the discomfort of moving. The residents of Coal, Wood, Commerce and adjoining streets were also victims of the merciless water. Not until 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon did the people of these districts become alarmed. At that time water commenced pouring out of the storm sewers and in a period of three hours indications pointed strongly to a flood surpassing the historical disaster of 1884.

Skiffs, rafts, johnboats and small barges were used to a great advantage in the moving of household effects. Many did not move from their houses,

COAL HOLLOW PARENTS PLUNGED IN DEEPEST ANXIETY.

Lads Aged 8, 9 And 11 Have Disappeared From Their Home.

The police of the city were notified this morning that three boys, Dan Bolles, Jr., John and Dave Easton, aged 8, 9 and 11 respectively, are missing from their homes in Coal Hollow. It is said that the last seen of the boys was Sunday morning when they left home ostensibly for Sunday school. All efforts to locate the lads have proven futile and it is feared that they were drowned in the back water which extends out beyond Coal Hollow.

The parents are nearly distracted over the prolonged absence of their children, and sympathizing neighbors have commenced a vigilant search.

19TH YEAR. NO. 52.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, MARCH 3, 1902.

TWO CENTS.

A LARGE VOTE WAS POLLED THROUGHOUT THE COUNTY AT SATURDAY'S PRIMARY

The Winners On the Ticket Are Hanley, White and Carnes.

RETURNS RATHER SLOW

Figures From a Few Precincts of the County Are Still Lacking.

THE COMMISSIONERSHIP FIGHT

Was the Closest of the Three, But Carnes Has a Good Safe Majority. Hanley's Vote for Clerk of Courts Highest of Any.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

Probate Judge—J. A. MARTIN. Clerk of Courts—JAMES N. HANLEY.

Recorder—CHARLES A. WHITE. Commissioner—M. P. CARNES. Infirmary Director—W. A. TARR. Surveyor—J. CHAS. KELLY. Coroner—JOHN L. STRAUGHN.

The whole county, except a very few precincts, took a deep interest in the election. The vote was remarkably large, and some of the contests were close enough to be exciting.

In East Liverpool the greatest interest centered in the county clerkship fight, with James N. Hanley, the popular city clerk, contesting for the honor against Sherman Atchison, of Salem. Both gentlemen are well known in politics and both have a host of friends. The early returns came from the northern end of the county and were of course in Atchison's favor. But when Hanley's friends heard from different wards and precincts of this city and other points in the neighborhood they smiled with satisfaction and appeared content. As the tabulated returns show, they had not the slightest ground for uneasiness. The highest vote given Mr. Atchison in any precinct of this city was 19 and the lowest 1. Hanley's plurality was the largest of that of any man on the county ticket. In Salem Mr. Atchison's popularity was attested by the fact that he received all but 71 votes out of a very large total.

The recordership contest perhaps furnished the greatest surprise. While many shrewd political observers expected Charles A. White, of Salineville, to win, probably no one expected that he would win by such a large majority. The earliest returns forecasted the result, leaving no doubt W. D. Turner, of Salem—a gentleman of unquestioned ability and of the highest standing—was bound to be snowed under by a man of equally good qualifications, sympathy for whose crippled condition brought him votes everywhere.

The commissionership race was the closest, and the result of it was in considerable doubt until midnight. Boyd, the East Liverpool candidate made an excellent run, and so did Kannal, of Unity, but Carnes' wide acquaintance and his strong home support carried the day for him.

County returns were rather slow in coming in, and those from Liverpool township were particularly slow. This was due to the surprisingly large vote in this city—in excess of 3,000—and to the fact that the counting of the county ticket was not attempted until after that of the city ticket had been completed.

Interested crowds surrounded the News Review bulletin boards until a late hour, despite rain and other inconveniences. Almost as much interest in the local contests was shown as if it had been a presidential election.

READY FOR DONATIONS

Carnegie Library Prepared to Receive Books—Gifts Will Be Appreciated.

The book committee of the Carnegie library has completed its first order list of several thousand volumes and submitted it to publishers north, east and west. The Wilson Stationery company, of this city, will also bid. Proposals will be opened on March 10.

In the meantime the library will be open all day and the librarian will be there to receive any gifts for the library.

In almost every house in East Liverpool there are books which have been read and laid aside, or duplicate copies of books which only fill up needed space in the book cases. These would be of great use to the library, as the money it would cost to buy these could then be spent for other books. Suggestions for the purchase of books that people want to read will be gladly received and passed upon by the book committee.

If donations are brought in during this week it will allow the book committee an opportunity of revising its lists before actually ordering, and when the library is opened it will be found to cover a much wider field. There must be a thousand families in East Liverpool who could easily spare one volume or more from their own libraries and will be glad to put them where they can be of interest and value to others.

DOWN-RIVER TOWNS

Caught the Full Effect of the Flood And Many Persons Are Homeless.

The river reached its maximum at Toronto at noon Sunday and is slowly receding. It lacked but two inches of the '91 flood. Not a factory or house in Toronto was touched, but much of New Cumberland and Empire were inundated and the people homeless.

There are several feet of water in the Chelsea China company's plant and other clay factories at New Cumberland, but as they were amply warned the loss will not be excessive, although it will aggregate many thousands dollars.

BIG POTTERY BURNED SUNDAY

LOSS WILL BE $250,000

Insurance on the Plant Was Low And Owners Were Arranging an Increase—W. J. Owen, Formerly of This City, the Manager.

Zanesville, March 3.—The J. B. Owens mammoth art pottery plant was burned to the ground yesterday, the building and contents being totally destroyed. The loss is $250,000, with $140,000 insurance. J. W. Bell, agent, had just been trying to get the insurance on the plant, which was low, increased to $175,000, and that amount had been ordered, but had not been arranged for.

W. J. Owen, formerly of East Liverpool, is manager of the plant. The fire started in the engine room and spread with great rapidity, the explosion of chemicals materially helping to scatter the conflagration. The fire department was powerless because of the lack of water pressure. The manufactured stock on hand had just been invoiced at $136,000 preparatory to an additional insurance, which, however, had not yet been written. Four hundred persons were thrown out of employment, but the plant will be immediately rebuilt.

No sooner had the firemen returned from the Owens fire than they were called to the Kearns-Gorsuch glass works, in the heart of the city, the warehouse of which had evidently been fired by an incendiary. The ware-

Came Back to Vote.

Lisbon, March 3. — (Special) — Among those who came back to Lisbon to vote on Saturday were State Treasurer I. B. Cameron, Senator C. C. Connel and G. C. Baxley, from Columbus. Congressman R. W. Taylor and Ed A. King missed connections at Pittsburg and came, via Leetonia, too late to vote. All will attend the county central committee meeting tomorrow.

son and Councilman Nice, of the Second ward, both of whom were out for a second term, there were contests on every office.

Marshal Thomas V. Thompson, for a second term, and Henry Aufderheide, a member of the local police force, were pitted against each other and the contest promised to be a warm one. Not long after the count was commenced, however, Thompson's election was conceded and he won by a plurality of 978.

For solicitor M. J. McGarry was the winner over W. K. Gaston, the present incumbent. The contest was hard fought, both men having strong organizations in the field. McGarry's election was conceded by many of Gaston's friends, as the former has been making the canvass for several months, and his fences were in almost perfect condition.

S. T. Herbert and Joseph Betz, who opposed each other for city treasurer, were both well known and popular. The campaign of each was honest and fair, but Herbert succeeded in winning by a fairly good majority.

For township clerk Willis Davidson was the popular candidate from the beginning and though a hard fight was put up by John Reark and his friends, the big policeman won out easily. Reark carried but one precinct, the second of the Fourth ward, where the two men ran very close all the way through the count. When it was finished Reark stood 130 to Davidson's 125. The loss to Reark will be heavier than upon any other defeated candidate, since this was his third trial for the place. On three former occasions he contended with J. N. Hanley for the place.

Frank Dickey was an easy winner for street commissioner, and his vote was no surprise to his friends. Cordingley made a good showing and had many friends in all parts of the city.

The fact that Highfield and Lewis were both from the same ward—the Fourth—is thought to have hurt their chances.

Murphy, Wells, Kelly and Vodrey won over King for board of education, and will all be returned to the body.

The contests for council in all the wards were spirited and close with the exception of the Fourth, where McConnell won out by a handsome majority.

In the First Heddleston and Johnston conducted a fight which under ordinary circumstances would have won for either. Johnston proved the more popular of the two, however, and his plurality was 49.

The contest between George Peach and Charles H. Berg, for council in the Third, was also hard fought, Peach winning by 290 to 230.

Both McLane and McConnell continued to line up their friends all the afternoon in the Fourth, and the former was confident of victory from the beginning. The count had not progressed far when it was demonstrated that McConnell was the winner. He carried both precincts by comfortable majorities, having 169 votes to the good, the largest majority secured by any councilman candidate.

In the Fifth Dr. Marshall defeated Jameson by 71 votes despite the hard fight made against him. The feeling was so strong and the enemies of Marshall went so far in their opposition to him that it is said in many cases the truth was not adhered to. In one instance in particular the reports were without foundation. It was said that the doctor employed non-union carpenters, but Robert Newell, secretary of the carpenters' union, declares the story to be untrue.

Powell's victory over Harry Hughes for constable was no surprise, and had been conceded from the first.

HIGHEST STAGE OF THE WATER

Was 41 Feet And 10 Inches, Surpassing the 1898 Flood—People at the West End And on Lowlands Had to Move—River Slowly Falling.

The Ohio river at this city yesterday morning reached a stage of 41 feet and 10 inches. From 6 o'clock yesterday morning until noon today, there was only a fall of 6 feet, sufficient to allow the lower floors of potteries to be cleaned and the cleaning of the street car tracks.

Manager Healy said this morning that from indications the traffic would be resumed on the entire street railway line by Wednesday noon if possible, or Thursday morning at the latest. It is thought the potteries will be able to resume operations tomorrow, but this is not definitely known.

Cars started to run to Wellsville this afternoon.

The river is still enormously high, but the worst is over. Saturday hundreds watched the rise. Yesterday thousands watched the waters slowly receding. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning the Ohio river reached its highest stage, after reaching above the 40-foot mark.

There was more water in the river than last year, when only 39 feet was registered at the Broadway wharf. After reaching its highest point the stream remained stationary for several hours and then began to fall. Not since the great flood of 1884 was there so much anxiety felt over the safety of property in the low lands as there was Saturday.

Reports received during the day from Pittsburg stated the river was still rising at headwaters, and on this account the unusual was looked for here.

The flood reached the boilers at the pump station early Saturday evening, putting out the fires and causing the pumps to be shut down. Immediately word was sent to the central fire station, asking the use of the fire engine. This was taken to the foot of Market street, where it was kept in constant use all Saturday night and Sunday, pumping water into the mains through a plug. The power back of this engine was not sufficient to force the water up the hill districts and much inconvenience was caused persons residing there, many families had to carry water or go without. However, the best service possible was given the public by Supt. Morley under the circumstances.

Pumps were started today at the station. Water was kept in the reservoir for emergency, this being done in case fire should occur. Not a pottery in the city was in full operation today, and it is not likely that all will resume tomorrow. Of course this will greatly depend upon conditions at the pumping station. This morning in all the river potteries, a large force of men were employed cleaning and scrubbing the floors which were flooded. If this soft mud should be allowed to remain on the floors after the water had receded it would be at least a week before work could be resumed in the lower parts of the factories. As the water falls this mud is washed out, thus saving much time and expense.

It is estimated the flood caused a loss of between $50,000 and $75,000 to this city. This is largely divided among pottery employes, manufacturers, the East Liverpool street railway company and its employes and also to property.

The greatest loss to property was in the West End, where the entire Jethro hollow district was flooded. Coal flats were brought into use on Saturday by residents of this flooded district, who placed their furniture in the flats and tying the latter near the shore. The loss to property in

The growth of this congregation has been wonderful and during the past two months 58 persons have united with the church.

OUT OF POLITICS

Alex Chafin Announces That He Has Retired From the Political Arena.

"The residents of the East End would rather have me building new houses, and bringing in new voters than to sit in council," was a remark made by Alex Chafin in the office of Walter Supplee this morning.

Guesses were made in many East End potteries last week as to how many votes Mr. Chafin would receive, and these were anywhere from 25 to 50. Mr. Chafin says he is out of politics for good.

Pitched Out into the Mud.

Edward Wherry, a Jameson worker at the Fifth ward polls Saturday, met with an accident which came near being attended with serious results. He was returning to the polls in a carriage, after accompanying an elderly gentleman to his home after he had voted, when the carriage partially upset, throwing Wherry into the street. He fell into a lot of mud, but was not injured. The carriage was somewhat damaged.

HOW THE CHINESE GET RAIN

Some Peculiar Practices in Vogue in the Celestial Kingdom.

It is one of the peculiarities of the Chinese that, while they have developed elaborate philosophies, none of them has led to any confidence in the uniformity of nature. Neither the people, nor their rulers have any fixed opinion as to the cause of rainfall. The plan in some provinces when the need of rain is felt is to borrow a god from a neighboring district and petition him for the desired result. If his answer is satisfactory, he is returned to his home with every mark of honor; otherwise he may be put out in the sun as a hint to wake up and do his duty. A bunch of willow is usually thrust into his hand, as willow is sensitive to moisture.

Another plan in extensive use is the building of special temples in which are wells containing several iron tablets. When there is a scarcity of rain, a messenger starts out with a tablet marked with the date of the journey and the name of the district making the petition. Arriving at another city, he pays a sum of money and is allowed to draw another tablet from the well, throwing in his own by way of exchange. On the return journey he is supposed to eat only bran and travel at top speed day and night. Sometimes he passes through districts as greatly in need of rain as his own. Then the people in these places waylay him and, temporarily borrowing his tablet, get the rain intended for another place.

Prayers are usually made in the fifth and sixth months, when the rainfall is always due, and a limit of ten days is set for their effective operation. Under such conditions rain usually falls during the prescribed time. When the prayers are in progress, the umbrella, among other objects, comes under the ban. In some provinces foreigners have been mobbed for carrying this harmless article at that time.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

UPPER OHIO FLOODED.

Most River Men Predict Over 54 Feet, at Cincinnati--Some Expect 59.7.

WHEELING DISTRICT SUFFERING.

Island Two-Thirds Covered and Fully 700 Families Occupying Upper Floors of Houses--Water Fell at Pittsburg--Other Sections Flooded.

Cincinnati, March 3.--Reports from the upper Ohio valley last night showed the river rising from Wheeling to Ripley and above the danger line at all intermediate points. Observer Basseller, of this city, reported to the weather bureau at Washington last night as follows:

"The Ohio river in the upper district is above danger lines. It will pass the danger line at Cincinnati (50 feet) at 9 a. m. Monday. Timely warnings have been issued throughout this district. No avoidable loss should occur here."

At 6 o'clock last night the river here was 47 feet. All those along the river front had been busy Sunday moving goods in anticipation of the crest today. Most of the river men predict a stage of over 54 feet and some expect the flood to equal that of last April, when it was 59.7 feet here.

Wheeling District Badly Flooded.

Wheeling, March 3.--Wheeling last night was in the grasp of the worst flood it has experienced since that of 1884 with but one exception. The maximum stage was reached at 6 o'clock last evening, 43 feet 3 inches. In Wheeling, Bellaire, Benwood, Martins Ferry and Bridgeport scores of factories have been entered by the raging waters. Fires extinguished and 20,000 men placed on the list of involuntary idleness.

Wheeling island was two-thirds covered by water last night and fully seven hundred families are occupying the upper floors of their homes. South Wheeling and Benwood were hit fully as hard. Owing to the slow advance of the flood tide, however, the people were enabled to move their belongings and as a consequence the property loss is not as heavy as on former occasions.

Yesterday afternoon, North Wheeling boys built a fire on the river bank and in the debris used as fuel was among other things a partially filled can of nitro-glycerin, which exploded with a tremendous report. Three of the boys were seriously injured, but will recover. They are: Harry Dean, Charles Lytle and Ray Herbert.

Another half-filled can of nitro-glycerine was kicked around in the gutter in front of the Hotel Windsor by boys until an oil man disclosed the character of the contents. Then there was a scattering of the population in all directions. The police were called and removed the can.

Deaths During Flood.

Pittsburg, March 3.--With the flood backed up to the very bed of the dead wagon, an Allegheny undertaker, under great difficulties, removed the remains of a woman from a home in the water-besieged section of the Northside.

While the tide ebbed all around the residence another life in the same house was ebbing rapidly toward eternity. By the time the second death occurred the raging river had risen to such a stage that the body had to be taken away by means of a rowboat.

At one place the dead could not be removed, and a funeral was postponed until the water about the grief-stricken home had subsided sufficiently for the obsequies to be possible.

Pittsburg, March 3.--The Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers reached a high point at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, when a stage of 32.4 feet was registered.

From that hour until 9 o'clock the rivers remained stationary, and then began to fall slowly.

At 7 o'clock it became apparent that the force of the flood had been spent and reports from up-river points confirmed this observation. Before that hour it seemed probable that a 35-foot stage would be experienced, and that the great flood of 1884 would be eclipsed, and the greater flood of Feb. 10, 1832, equaled. As it was the flood of 1902 is the third greatest in the history of Pittsburg.

The expectation that the river would rise to 25 feet early Saturday morning was more than verified, as the marks showed 29 feet. Persons who had counted on 25 feet and were waiting for morning to move their goods to safe places found themselves face to face with a problem.

The Irish, Armed, A GREATER THREAT Than the Boers

By LORD SALISBURY, Premier of Great Britain

THE existence of hostile feeling in Ireland is a signal that the efforts upon which depend in no light degree the glory and continuance of the empire must not be relaxed.

The feelings of hostility which have of late been expressed are more uncompromising than any expressions which ever issued from the lips of Parnell or O'Connell.

Water Drove Them From Work.

In spite of the rapid work the water rose so rapidly for a time that the men were driven from their work.

All day long thousands of people watched the flood come up little by little as it spread out over its banks and streets and began to pour into the basements of large buildings. Soon the waters began lapping at the base of the big buildings and forcing the people back to higher ground.

Between the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers there was a marked difference. The former carried on its bosom thousands of tons of ice from far up the stream, while the surface of the other was almost free of debris and calm as a lake.

Lower Allegheny and the Point district of Pittsburg were deep in water. To reach most of the bridges between the two cities skiffs or wagons were necessary, and passengers paid well for this short ride to escape wet feet.

Had Calculated on Moving Goods.

Scores of firms that had moved their goods from the cellars to the first floors anxiously watched the water coming up and calculated to a fine point how many inches more would make it necessary to move up one story higher. Most of them were saved from extra work by the margin of a few inches, and hailed with delight the news at 7 o'clock that the rivers were stationary.

No accurate estimate of the damage caused by the flood can be arrived at. Aside from the loss of business houses by cutting them off from communication with their customers, thousands of dollars worth of property will be damaged by the mud and water, the traces of which it will require weeks to efface.

Greater loss was escaped by the general preparations of the people, due to the timely warnings and the general apprehension of a flood for more than a week past.

Stagnation in Mill District.

The flood brought chaos and stagnation in the vast mill district along the Allegheny river in Pittsburg and Allegheny. Thousands of men employed in the numerous plants will be out of work, and hundreds of thousands of dollars damage will be sustained.

The actual damage to machinery in the various plants in the flooded district will not be as serious as would naturally be supposed, and this is due entirely to the early warnings that the weather bureau sent out, which gave the mill owners time to prepare for the worst and to protect such portions of their machinery as would suffer from flooding.

Another feature of the flood was that it came on Saturday, and, as is the custom of the mills of this district, there is a general shutdown in the morning for over Saturday night and until Sunday evening. This practically lessens the effect of the temporary closing of the various plants, as they were simply following their usual custom and would have closed down anyway.

Nearly 20,000 men were made idle.

Man Reported Drowned.

Steubenville, O., March 3.--The river began to fall at 4 p. m. yesterday, having reached a stage of 41 feet, 9 inches. The Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad station buildings are flooded. Traffic on the Cleveland and Pittsburg and the Wheeling, Lake Erie and Western is suspended because of the tracks being under water. At Mingo Junction 50 houses are flooded. One man is reported drowned. Four thousand steel workers at Mingo Junction are idle because of high water.

NINE VICTIMS OF THE FLOOD.

Wilkesbarre, Pittston and Other Eastern Pennsylvania Towns Suffer From Disastrous Flood.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 3.--A heavy rainfall and rush of water from its upper tributaries caused the north branch of the Susquehanna river to rise rapidly Sunday. At 10 o'clock last evening the gauge showed 31 feet and 3 inches. It is thought there will be another rise of a few inches before the water recedes. Sunday's high water mark is equal to that of 1865, which has always been known as a record breaker.

The water is over the banks of the river from Pittston to Nanticoke and resembles a vast lake. Nearly one-half of the city is under water. At

West Moor Firewood and Riverside nearly all the residents vacated their houses.

The people living on river and adjoining streets, which is the principal resident portion of this city, were hemmed in by the water and are unable to leave their homes unless by boat. All the streets in West Pittston are under several feet of water.

Had to Move Dead Body.

Two hundred families living in the lowlands in the town of Plymouth had to leave their houses hastily Sunday afternoon, the water covering the first floors and putting out the fires. The body of Mrs. Rowland, who died Sunday afternoon, had to be removed from the premises on a boat, as there was danger of the house being carried away. Dr. W. J. Butler had to be rowed in a boat to a house at Riverside to attend a woman, who shortly afterward gave birth to a child.

At Nanticoke several houses were swept away by the rushing waters and the people living in them had a narrow escape for their lives. The flooding of the boiler room of the power houses of the Wilkesbarre and Wyoming Valley Traction company disabled the electric railway system of the whole valley. The Lehigh Valley railroad was able to get a train through from Mauch Chunk Sunday afternoon. It was the first train from the east since Friday afternoon.

The tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway between this city and Pittston are covered with several feet of water.

Several washouts are reported along the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. It is not known when this road will be able to resume the running of trains. Three feet of water covers the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad at Buttonwood.

Reports from the mine show that many of them were flooded, and it will take some days before they can be pumped out. This will curtail the output of coal.

Nine lives had been lost so far last night. The damage to property is estimated at $1,000,000.

Highest in 25 Years.

Susquehanna, Pa., March 3.--The Susquehanna river is the highest in 25 years. The heavy body of ice between Binghamton and Cooperstown has passed out and has done much damage. The tannery building at Red Rock was carried down stream and took with it a section of the county bridge connecting Great Bend and Halstead. All passenger trains are running from New York to Waverly, thence westward over the Lehigh Valley road to Buffalo. Lehigh Valley live stock trains are running over the Erie between Waverly and New York. The Erie road has a large force of men repairing tracks at Waverly and at other points. The Pennsylvania division of the Delaware and Hudson railroad between Scranton and Ninevah is tied up by high water at various points.

Allentown, Pa., March 3.--No lives were lost in the flood of Friday and Saturday, but there were many narrow escapes from drowning and from being crushed under falling or floating buildings. The Jersey Central double track bridge over the Lehigh river and over Klines island is so badly damaged that it cannot be used. Trains are run over the Lehigh Valley road from Allentown to Easton. The Jersey Central's bridge at Glenoko is down and all wires to the north are leveled. A gang of 150 men is out making repairs. Trolley cars resumed running yesterday morning, but did not reach all points on the line. The gas plant started up yesterday afternoon and the electric plant was also in operation last night.

Damage About Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, March 3.--The second and third piers of the famous old camel back bridge on the Harrisburg side were washed away by high water early yesterday morning. The bridge

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

The Republicans of Columbiana county seldom make mistakes. They have made no mistake in the ticket they have chosen for important county offices. While disappointment in some quarters is inevitable, even the disappointed ones must admit that it is an admirable ticket and that it merits the undivided and earnest support of the whole party. This, we feel confident, it will receive. The ticket is therefore as good as elected, and it is a credit to the Republican voters of the county.

Especially gratifying is the large vote that was polled. It shows that the Republican party is in excellent shape and that its voters are not neglectful of good citizens' duties.

What has been said of the county ticket can be repeated with emphasis concerning the city ticket. It is composed of good men, who have the city's best interests at heart, and of sound Republicanism. Important matters will come before the new city administration for solution. The number of such questions is constantly increasing, the rapid growth of the city rendering each local election more important than the preceding one. The men who were nominated on Saturday and who will shortly be elected are, in the majority of cases, familiar with the city's affairs, as well as young, energetic and progressive. The city can safely look to them for a capable and creditable administration.

During the period from 1891 to 1901 the exports of the United States increased in value from $970,509,646 to $1,465,380,919. Of the increase of four hundred and ninety-five millions more than four hundred millions is attributable to Europe and North America, and it may be said that the details of the trade prove conclusively that the highest promise is where there is the highest civilization. While the exports to China, of which we hear so much, have advanced from eight millions to eighteen millions the exports to the United Kingdom have increased from $482,295,796 to $598,766,799.

A burst reservoir, a flooded pumping station and a dearth even of muddy water when water is superabundant. East Liverpool is in an unfortunate plight. Let us hope that the promised solution of the water problem is near. The people have been patient, but they are beginning to feel that it is time for energetic effort to remedy existing conditions.

Columbiana county Republicans are numerous and they were mostly awake to the importance of voting yesterday. This is as it should be. No community is liable to go far wrong politically where the citizens show proper interest in elections.

The state of Ohio is said to contain 5,000 places where liquor is illegally sold. There is no excuse for one of them existing, and the determination of the state department to drive them out of business is deserving of the warmest encouragement.

The New York legislature has passed a bill forbidding the wanton and cruel sport of slaughtering pigeons as a test of marksmanship. Humane people everywhere will rejoice and hope that the example set by the Empire state will spread.

The earliest snake of the season is reported to have made its appearance at Youngstown. A season in which some of the residents of that city were not seeing snakes would certainly be phenomenal.

American favor is something worth having. Europe has come to tardy recognition of the fact. The Spanish war was not a great one, except in results, but it gave the world a new revelation of America's strength and greatness.

AT THE THEATER

At the opera house Tuesday night Edward C. White's highly successful and delightful drama, "Two Little Vagrants," which has taken a first place in its own class as an instructive and thoroughly entertaining play. The story is extremely interesting, appealing as it does to the tender sympathies of the human heart, and representing throughout the entire four acts a remarkable concentration of dramatic vigor and strong sentiment.

The Orpheon Extravaganza company of Chicago will bring to the opera house Wednesday night a bevy of the handsomest girls that ever wore tights. There are 40 in the chorus and their costumes are the most elaborate ever worn in burlesque, being exact copies of those in the original Weber-Felds productions of "Whirl-I-Gig" and "Fiddle-dee-dee," which are the two skits selected for this city. The engagement here is for one week.

"A Wise Guy" has been almost rewritten this season. Last season's version has been gleaned of its brightest bits and other new original comedy lines, music situations and characters have been interpolated into this season's version of one of the funniest farce comedies ever presented. At the opera house Thursday night.

POTTERY NEWS

A Pittsburg paper quotes A. M. Moreland, of the Union Potteries company, as saying concerning the new American Potteries company, of which he is president:

"They told me their proposition and asked me to go in. I told them I would on certain conditions. They can accept them or not. I can build a pottery in Trenton to handle the eastern trade. If they want the work to be done in their potteries so much the better. I am going after the eastern trade and do not care to run 12 kilns if I can run 100. I propose to work on business lines and have more orders now than I can handle. I do not need to cut prices or to take advantage of the workmen. I am willing to pay for everything I get and for everything that is done for me. If a man handles more for me than any one else I am willing to pay for it."

"I am in the pottery trade to do business and can back any move I make with $1,000,000 or $1,500,000. They told me I could not do certain things, but I am doing them and will easily cover the cost of the trial by the end of the year. I was told there was money in the pottery business and I believe it. I can see a way of getting it out by applying business principles."

A change will be made in the office force of the D. E. McNicol within the next few days. It has been said that Albert Corns, who took the position formerly held by Charles Surles, will be sent to the Smith-McNicol at Wellsville where where he will assume the management of the plant. James Patterson has been looking after a portion of the office business of this factory, but his duties will be assumed by Mr. Corns while Mr. Patterson will be assigned to another part of the factory. John McNicol will be given the position vacated by Mr. Corns, but the individual who will take McNicol's place has not been named. Each change is in the shape of a promotion, a policy followed by this company for years.

The statement has been sent out from Trenton that arrangements have been made for the purchase of the charter of the old American Potteries company under which the new concern will operate and under the same name. It is expected that the details will have been completed by next week. A. M. Moreland, formerly president of the Union Potteries company, is president of the American Potteries company, while John Burgess, of the International Pottery company, is treasurer. Other officers have not yet been elected.

Within the past five years potters' sponges have advanced 80 per cent in price, caused mainly by the scarcity of the article. An increase of 10 per cent was made here three months ago. In years past sponges were gathered close to the coasts, but now they are found in deeper water, and are much harder to procure than in former years. This has caused the useful article to the clay worker to be more costly.

The erection of the decorating plant of John D. Boyd & Co., of Trenton, which was burned to the ground last fall, has been completed. It is one of the most spacious manufacturing establishments in the city. Operations began last week, 80 hands being employed at the start.

The United States Pottery at Wellsville is building bottoms for four down draught kilns for biscuit firing. The only other Ohio plant using down draught kilns is in Akron, and the work of the Wellsville kilns will be watched with considerable interest.

The death last week of Leon A. Berod, at his home in Trenton, removes from the field of art decorating one of the most talented men in the United States. He died suddenly of heart trouble. He came from France about 20 years ago.

Homer Taylor, of the Taylor, Smith & Taylor, is visiting relatives at Sebring.

AGAINST A MARRIED MAN OF THE WEST END.

The Accused Strenuously Denies His Guilt—Requisition Papers Demanded.

An affidavit filed in Squire W. C. Johnston's court at Chester resulted in the arrest this morning of a well known married man residing in the West End on the charge of assault and battery with criminal intent.

Mrs. Annie Barker, wife of an employe of the Chester mill, filed the charge in Justice Johnston's court last Saturday, but because the defendant is a resident of Ohio it was necessary for the woman to file a second affidavit. She did so this morning in Justice McCarron's court and Constable Powell soon after placed the accused man under arrest.

He was taken before Magistrate McCarron, when he refused to go to West Virginia without requisition papers. He strenuously denied his guilt and stated that he feared if he consented to go before the Chester magistrate evidence would be introduced against him which would convict him. He was placed under $500 bond to appear for trial this evening. The bond was promptly furnished.

According to the statements of Mrs. Barker to Justice McCarron it is evident that the man she accuses is not guilty of all she alleges. She said that while working about her home the accused man asked her for a drink of water and that after she had given it to him he seized her about the waist, drawing her on his lap and kissed her.

Aside from giving her a squeeze the woman herself admitted that the young man did not do anything wrong. However, she insisted on his arrest and swore that he tried to overpower her. After the papers had been made out, the woman said she would not have had the action begun only because, as she alleged, that the accused circulated slanderous reports about her.

Constable Powell went to Chester at noon and informed Mrs. Barker that the defendant in the case was ready for trial. Some spicy testimony is looked for.

IN CONTRADICTION TO THE STATEMENT MADE LAST WEEK CONCERNING DR. MARSHALL'S EMPLOYING NON-UNION LABOR THE FOLLOWING IS A SECTION OF THE SPECIFICATIONS USED BY HIM WHEN BUILDING THE HOUSES:

WELLSVILLE

WELLSVILLE ELECTION

Central Committeemen Chosen--The Only Fight Being in the Second Ward.

There was very little interest manifested in the primary election Saturday. This cannot be attributed to a lack of good citizenship or patriotism on the part of the voters, but instead was due to the perilous condition of homes, business houses and industrial plants, many of which needed the close attention of employers and employees to save them from destruction, owing to the exceeding high stage of the river.

Considering this fact, the number of votes polled (689) was a fair representation for the city. The election of central committeemen for the several wards passed off more quietly than was anticipated, the only warm fight being in the Second ward, where three names had been nominated at a caucus which several prominent Republicans alleged was illegally held and conducted.

The result for the county candidates, given in totals, was: For recorder, White, 418; Turner, 219. Clerk of courts, Hanley, 441; Atchison, 173. Commissioner, Boyd, 270; Carnes, 180; Kannal, 161.

The city central committeemen elected were: First ward, Joshua Halliday, Blair Burchard and Joseph Geisse. Second ward, Eli Taylor, John Duncan and John W. McQueen. Third ward, Charles R. McGregor, E. S. Martin and George Sutton. Fourth ward, Emmett McKenzie, C. P. Smith and John Glessner. Fifth ward, Edward Ralston, T. P. Ferguson and George White.

Fined $1 And Costs.

Twenty-Seven Witnesses Heard.

The examination of witnesses in the Margaret Orr-Ed Anderson damage suit came to an end this afternoon, but a decision will not be made by Squire MacKenzie until Wednesday. There were 27 witnesses testified and attorneys were employed by both the plaintiff and defendant.

A CURE AND A FEE.

Peculiar Experience of a Doctor With a Business Man.

In conversation one day about the peculiar views that commercial men sometimes entertain about professional services Dr. S. Weir Mitchell told the following story:

"A very wealthy man from the west came to consult me about an attack of vertigo. He said that he had just returned from a trip to Europe, where he had consulted eminent specialists, but that they had failed to afford him any permanent relief. 'A physician in London,' he said, 'asked me why I did not make an attempt to be cured nearer home. I thought on my way out west I would stop over to see you.'"

"'Has any physician you have visited looked into your ears?' I asked."

"'No,' was his reply."

"'I made an examination of his ears, removed some wax and a substance that appeared to be hardened remnants of cotton wool. I sent him away then and told him to come again in a day or two. He did so."

"'Well,' he exclaimed, 'I am cured. How much do I owe you?'"

"'About $50,' I replied."

"'As he drew a check he asked, 'Did you know when you first examined my ears that you could cure me?'"

"'When I told him that I had a very fair conviction that I could, he said: 'Well, you are a blundered fool. You should have said to me: 'I think I can cure you, and I will do so for $10,000. No cure, no pay.' You would have got your money without a murmur.'"

"'Oh,' I said, 'if you feel that way about it there are several little charities in which I am interested, and--'"

NEWS OF THE OIL FIELDS

Several New Wells Will Be Drilled In the Turkeyfoot District at an Early Date.

Murray & Miller are hauling out lumber for six new rigs on their leases. They are also putting in a fine new power for pumping all their wells. It is one of the most complete and up-to-date powers made. The firm has placed a 25-horse power engine in the field.

Happy Jack Woods, who represents the National Supply company, was in the fields last week and placed large orders.

The number of engines that are arriving at the Carson field is an indication that business is looking up in that district.

The well on the R. M. Cowl farm, now being drilled by Mifdren & Sons, will be in this week.

REAL ESTATE ACTIVE

Several Deals Were Closed for Chester Property on Saturday.

Real estate deals in Chester last Saturday were many. Ephraim Johnston sold $1,600 worth of lots and most of them to Chester people. J. Hough and J. S. D. Mercer each bought a lot on Carolina avenue, paying $650 per lot and Al Fowler purchased a house and lot on Virginia avenue from Bert Allison.

Dismissed the Case.

Upon a charge of non-support, Archibald Chapman was arraigned before Squire Johnston Saturday. The charge was sworn to by his wife. She alleged that he had left her some time ago and had failed to provide for their children. He is employed at the tin mill and after dividing his wages received Saturday with his wife, the Squire dismissed him.

Not Enough Evidence.

The case of Joe Kilmer against Mrs. Nancy Grandstaff, wherein he sued for $25, was dismissed by Squire Johnston Saturday. The Squire did not think the evidence produced was substantial.

A Small Fire.

A small fire occurred at the home of I. W. Moore, Second street, this morning. Mrs. Moore had accidentally thrown a lighted match into some bed clothes and the fire ensued. Loss $20.

An Urgent Case.

When the doctor's telephone rang late one night, he went to the instrument himself and received an urgent appeal from two fellow practitioners to come down to the club for a quiet game.

"'Emmy, dear,' he said, turning to his wife, 'I am called out again, and it appears to be a very serious case, for there are two doctors already in attendance.'"

THE HOUSE HUNTERS.

The men who go out gunning
No more are to the front.
For they have passed the season
When they're allowed to hunt.
But many sharp eyed women
Now much attention claim,
For they are daily hunting,
And houses are their game.

They do not seek the forests,
For right in town they stay,
Where they can hunt in safety
From dawn till close of day.
No guns are they requiring
As they pursue their quest,
For little lists of dwellings Absorb their interest.

An early start they're making
And with their faces set
So that the line of vision
Will take in each "To Let."
And often in the distance
A hope before them looms,
But to their disappointment
The sign is "Furnished Rooms."

The journey they're resuming,
And up and down each street
They go until they're weary,
Especially their feet.
Day after day they travel
Along the same old route,
And rarely do they notice
A dwelling that will suit.

The season's just commencing,
And soon there'll be a throng
Of hunters there patrolling
The streets the whole day long.
But many soon will weary
And in their old homes stay,
Where they'll be free from troubles
That come on moving day.

Spurgeon Corrected His Opinion of What He Might Do.

One day the mayor of Cambridge, who had tried to curb Mr. Spurgeon's tendencies to sensationalism, inquired of him if he had really told his congregation that if a thief got into heaven he would begin picking the angels' pockets.

"Yes, sir," the young preacher replied, "I told them that if it were possible for an ungodly man to go to heaven without having his nature changed he would be none the better for being there, and then, by way of illustration, I said that were a thief to get in among the glorified he would remain a thief still, and he would go around the place picking the angels' pockets."

"But, my dear young friend," asked the mayor seriously, "don't you know that the angels haven't any pockets?"

"No, sir," replied young Spurgeon, with equal gravity, "I did not know that, but I am glad to be assured of the fact from a gentleman who does know. I will take care to put it all right the first opportunity I get."

The next Monday morning Spurgeon walked into the mayor's place of business and said to him cheerfully, "I set that matter right yesterday, sir."

"What matter?" he inquired.

"Why, about the angels' pockets."

"What did you say?"

"Oh, sir, I just told the people I was sorry to say that I had made a mistake the last time I preached to them, but that I had met a gentleman, the mayor of Cambridge, who had assured me that the angels had no pockets, so I must correct what I had said, as I did not want anybody to go away with a false notion about heaven. I would therefore say that if a thief got among the angels without having his nature changed he would try to steal the feathers out of their wings!"--Homiletic Review.

Black Mirrors.

Crystal gazing is still popular, but the very latest thing in use is a black mirror, in which the sibyls say they can see many things. These little black mirrors come from India, where a spot of ink has always been a favorite vehicle for divination. The native boy who has "the second sight" is told to look fixedly at a spot of ink, which is poured into his hand. The black mirror is said to be every bit as good as the ink, and it is certainly more cleanly. It is made of a piece of black glass set in a wooden frame and is small enough to be held inside the hand.--London Chronicle.

Effects of Pepper.

A writer on foods declares that pepper is a vegetable poison, a stimulant, but in no sense a food; a substance nonusable by the vital organs and therefore to be thrown out of the vital domain.

Red or black pepper is a prolific cause of enlargement of the blood vessels and ultimately of disease of the heart. Its immediate effect is to create increased action, not only of the capillaries, causing temporary congestion and even inflammation of the mucous surfaces, but also of the organs which secrete the digestive fluids. Its ultimate effect is to weaken and deaden these organs by repeated stimulation to abnormal action. It also impairs or destroys the nerves of taste in the mouth, together with the gastric or other nerves which aid in the process of digestion.

When these are weakened by stimulants, the functions themselves are necessarily impaired, and confirmed dyspepsia, with its attendant train of bad symptoms, brings up the rear.

HORSES OF VENICE.

Actual Count Increases the Number to Fifteen.

It is a popular joke to say that there are but six horses in Venice, four over the portico of St. Mark's cathedral and two bronze animals of heroic size, one bestrode by Victor Emmanuel and the other by General Colleone. But this is a mistake. There are four other horses, also of bronze, in the Church of St. John and St. Paul, and quite a number of plaster and marble in the different public buildings, making altogether at least fifteen or sixteen. Ruskin and other competent critics have declared the statue of Colleone to be the best equestrian monument ever cast in bronze. It was designed and cast by Andrea Verrocchio, painter, sculptor, jeweler, engraver, poet and musician, a man of infinite genius, whose greatest fame lies in the fact that he was the instructor of the greatest artists of all centuries--Michael Angelo, Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci. The statue of Victor Emmanuel is not so highly thought of.

The horses on the top of St. Mark's are famous and have had a trying experience. They date back to the prehistoric age and are supposed to be the work of a Greek artist named Lyssippus and designed for a sculptured chariot. They were taken to Rome during the empire and first used as ornaments upon a triumphal arch erected by Nero and afterward by Trajan. The Emperor Constantine took them from Rome to Constantinople, where the Doge Dandolo seized them as loot and brought them to Venice. When Napoleon entered the city in 1797, he had them taken down from the roof of the cathedral and shipped them in wagons over the Alps to Paris. They served as ornaments upon the triumphal arch in the Place du Carrousel till 1815, when Emperor Francis I. of Austria redeemed them, and they were replaced, at his expense, where they now stand. These ponderous animals are of pure copper, and each weighs about two tons. They were formerly gilded, but the gold has been worn off by the weather, and the verdigris which has accumulated upon the copper gives them a rich green tint.--William E. Curtis in Chicago Herald.

A Wasp's Nest.

The female wasp spends the winter in a torpid condition, and when spring arrives she hunts up some sort of sheltered spot appropriate for a nest. Having selected the retreat, she proceeds to lay within it the foundation of a home. For this object earth will not serve her turn. The substance of which the walls and chambers of the house are to be composed must be none other than the finest paper, made of wood pulp, mixed with a sort of sizing, worked to a paste and finely spread in sheets.

BATTLE STORY TOLD

NEGROES SANG FOR HENRY.

Demonstrations of Friendliness in the South and in Indiana—Left Indianapolis Last Night For St. Louis. Enthusiasm Over Admiral Evans.

Indianapolis, March 3.—Prince Henry, of Prussia, went up Lookout mountain yesterday and after viewing the ground where the Union and Confederate armies met in conflict and hearing afresh the story of the battles, resumed his journey to the north and west. Leaving Chattanooga over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, his train ran through a corner of Alabama and then turning to the north hurried across Tennessee, with a short stop at Nashville; through Kentucky, with brief stays at Louisville and Bowling Green, and up into Indiana for another brief halt at Indianapolis. At Indianapolis the course was changed to the westward again, and on the tracks of the Vandalia line his train last night was on the reach for St. Louis. His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince and they interested and amused him.

He had an opportunity to hear them sing at Nashville and was greatly pleased at the experience. It was the Glee Club of Fiske university that sang and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

People Gathered at Stations.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga and the people presented the prince with a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis. At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans as well, and at several points after they had seen and cheered the prince the people called for the admiral. Brief though it was, Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour and as he was leaving Nashville he said:

"The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindest manner, and I very deeply appreciate it. I wish they might all know how thankful I am."

Heard Negroes Sing.

Nashville, Tenn., March 3.—Prince Henry, of Prussia, spent 15 minutes in Nashville yesterday afternoon, arriving over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road at 2:30 o'clock, and departing over the Louisville and Nashville for Louisville at 2:45. Ten thousand men, women and children crowded the Union station and railroad yards for a sight of the royal visitor and accorded him a most cordial reception. The prince did not leave his car, but from the back platform smiled his acknowledgments of the demonstrations in his honor. He made no speech, a hearty "Thank you," "Thank you," being in substance

MILITARISM VERSUS COMMERCIALISM

By W. BOURKE COCKRAN

HIS nation has been a world power—a world power of surpassing value to the civilization of the world. It has assumed the primacy of civilization because from the very hour of its birth it has been devoted unswervingly to justice.

The object of every war that was ever waged, at least in the old world, was plunder—that is to say, profit. Vanquished countries are despoiled more scientifically, but more successfully, by tribute. MILITARISM IS THE PURSUIT OF PROFIT BY PLUNDER; COMMERCIALISM IS THE PURSUIT OF PROFIT BY INDUSTRY. No fortune, however great, but was produced by peaceful pursuits. America has given a shining lesson to all the world for the benefit of all ages. It has taught that the pathway to advantage is through honesty and justice and not through violence and plunder.

his reply to the welcoming address of Mayor J. M. Head. During the stop here the desire expressed by the prince to hear some of the old plantation negro songs of the south was gratified, the negro jubilee singers from Fisk university singing three of those tuneful melodies to the manifest enjoyment of the prince. One of the singers was a member of the organization when it made a tour of Europe, some years ago, and having been told this, Prince Henry, after the first song, reached over and shook hands with her, making reference to the visit to Berlin.

Train Was Delayed Saturday.

Cincinnati, March 3.—A more wretched day could not have been picked out for the royal journey across Pennsylvania and Ohio Saturday. The special train, which left Washington at midnight over the Pennsylvania railroad, encountered many vexatious delays due to the heavy floods in the Allegheny river.

At Pittsburgh formal greetings were exchanged between the prince and the committee, and a less formal chat followed, in which the royal visitor's suite and all the local well-wishers took part. The prince expressed himself as sensibly impressed with the signs and tokens of industry and prosperity in the country he had already traversed.

"This region is the backbone of American enterprise," declared one of the Pittsburgh committee.

"Indeed," laughed Prince Henry, "this backbone promises never to break."

At Columbus, the next stop, the prince found it possible to drive as far as the capitol with the two committees of the Ohio legislature and of Columbus citizens upon whom the honor of entertaining him devolved. He and Governor Nash exchanged brief speeches.

Germans Sing and Cheer.

Here in Cincinnati the German societies took a prominent part in the prince's reception. All the people from "over the Rhine," as the more distinctly German section of this city is called, seemed to have gathered at the station to sing "Hell Dir" and shout "Dreimal Hoch!" The prince in addressing their spokesmen told the German-Americans substantially as he had told their brethren in New York that the Fatherland expected them to be as good American patriots as they would have been Germans if they were "at home."

Formal ceremonies of welcome by the city officials were followed by a general reception, in which leading citizens were introduced to the prince, who conversed affably and with interest with many of them on general subjects.

Pittsburg, March 3.—The most important feature of the trip over the mountains occurred shortly after daylight Saturday, when the prince, in accordance with his previously announced intention, sat for an hour in the cab of the engine while it sped through gorges and over trestles.

At Altoona the special made an unexpected stop of ten minutes. A large crowd gathered, and there were repeated cheers for the prince. A band serenaded him.

Making Errors.

A Massachusetts business firm prints this paragraph at the top of its letter heads: "Errors—we make them; so does every one. We will cheerfully correct them if you will write to us. Try to write good naturedly if you can, but write to us anyway. Do not complain to some one else first or let the matter pass. We want the first opportunity to make right any injustice that we may do." The little sermon deserves a wide audience. Few people have not had occasion at some time in their lives to regret the sending of a harsh or hasty note of complaint. It may be necessary to assert one's rights in subsequent letters, but there is no better rule of correspondence than to make the first one good natured.—Youth's Companion.

A Cure For Scald Head.

I have heard my grandmother say she had cured many a scald head by taking pure pine tar and enough lard to make an ointment when melted together so the tar won't stick, then keep the head as clean as possible and oil with the ointment. She said she had seen it cure heads when the matter had eaten seams in the neck.—Detroit Free Press.

HEALTH VERSUS STRENGTH

A Good Stomach Is Worth More Than Muscular Power.

The strong man was doing some of his most sensational "stunts." Evidently his performance was free from trickery. The muscles spoke for that, and there were ease and enjoyment in all his movements.

"What a splendid fellow!" exclaimed a college student in a front row to his older companion. "I'd give all I expect ever to know of the classics in exchange for that physique. Just think what it means—unlimited endurance and strength. With that and a fair share of brains, there isn't anything a man couldn't accomplish."

The older man smiled at the younger's enthusiasm.

"You're doing very well as it is," he said. "The battle may generally be to the strong and skillful, but it isn't just muscular strength that counts. To tell you the truth, you've inherited something that is worth more to you than all the mere muscle you could put on in a lifetime. I mean your stomach."

"Yes, of course; that's important, but—"

"It's everything, my boy. Now, suppose I should tell you that that big fellow up there is in greater danger of collapse than you are likely to be if you take fair care of yourself and exercise in moderation."

"How is that possible? He is the picture of health and strength."

"And what do you say to this fellow?" asked the physician, drawing a photograph from his pocket. It was the likeness of an athlete not much the physical inferior of the strong man.

"This chap," continued the medical expert, "came to me for treatment recently. He needed it. The flesh was literally falling off him. He was losing a pound a day. You see, he had suddenly collapsed."

"Stomach. I'm not telling you anything new, but it's astonishing how much an elemental truth is overlooked. A man is no stronger than his stomach."

"If your stomach isn't far better than that of most Americans, look out! This patient of mine had changed his food, and it came near costing him his life. So don't be too quick to envy the strong man, and go ahead with your classics, not forgetting twenty minutes or so a day of well directed exercise."—New York Herald.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Onions may be readily transplanted if growing too thick.

Weeds should not be allowed to grow or crusts to form around young fruit trees.

Do not buy any kind of fruit trees or plants simply because they are cheap.

With all transplanting it is important to see that the soil is well filled in around the roots.

Prune spurs to one developed bud, for the nearer the old wood the higher flavored the fruit.

A weak solution of poultry droppings is a wonderful stimulant of plant growth. It may be used weekly with good effect.

Only well rotted manure should be applied around the grapevines. Fresh manure excites the growth, but does not mature it.

Quince trees should be mulched as a protection against extreme heat and cold, as the roots are small and usually near the surface.

In selecting trees to grow as a wind-break it is quite an item to have them of a close growing habit and of as nearly perpetual foliage as possible. Plant a double row.

Turkish Delight.

The oriental sweet called "Turkish delight" that travelers in the east are sure to taste is not difficult to make. Have ready an ounce of gelatin, preferably the clear imported sheet variety, which has been soaked for two hours in a very little cold water. Bring to a boil in a porcelain pot a pound of granulated sugar and half a cupful of cold water, adding the gelatin, and boil till the mixture dropped in cold water can be held in the finger. After it has boiled steadily for fifteen minutes add the juice of one lemon and a tablespoonful of brandy. Pour to cool in a clean tin which has been wet in cold water, cutting the mixture as it stiffens into squares like caramels. Each piece is dusted with powdered sugar or rolled in waxed paper.—New York Post.

No Proof Necessary.

Colonel C. L. Colquhoun of Louisiana was halted on the street one day by a gentleman who evidently did not know him.

"Can you tell me," asked the unknown, "who is the best lawyer in town?"

"I am, sir," replied the colonel without hesitation.

The man looked surprised.

"Excuse me," he said; "I should like to have you prove it."

"Don't have to prove it, sir," thundered the colonel; "I admit it."—New York Times.

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.

Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

emanations from America had been to foreigners devoted to such discussions. The Irving family, though with a proclivity for letters, were not descendants of a long line of cultivated ancestors, as was often the case with New England authors. Young Washington himself was through his school days at 16 and, though a bookish boy, was also a stroller over Manhattan Island with a keen eye for what was going on and a wistful gaze after the sails that filled away for lands remote.

"The History of New York From the Beginning of the World to the End of the Dutch Dynasty," with its accounts of the unutterable proceedings of Walter the Doubter, the disastrous projects of William the Testy and the chivalric achievements of Peter the Headstrong, came very near being what the author asserted, "the only authentic history of the times that ever hath been or ever will be written." If history is a reproduction of life, as well as a record of events, no better representation of a former age to illustrate and ridicule the ongoings of a later one will likely be made by any successor of Diedrich Knickerbocker. For example:

"Such was the happy reign of Wouter Van Twiller, celebrated in many a long forgotten song as the real golden age, the rest being nothing but counterfeit, copper washed coin. In that delightful period a sweet and holy calm reigned over the whole province. The burgomaster smoked his pipe in peace. The substantial solace of his domestic cares, after her daily toils were done, sat soberly at the door with her arms crossed over her apron of snowy white without being insulted by ribald street walkers or vagabond boys, those un-lucky urchins who do so infest our streets, displaying under the roses of youth the thorns and briars of iniquity. Then it was that the lover with ten breeches and damsel with petticoats half a score indulged in all the endearments of virtuous love without fear and without reproach. Happy would it have been for New Amsterdam could it always have existed in this state of blissful ignorance and lovely simplicity; but, alas, the days of childhood are too sweet to last."

"The Sketch-Book of Geoffrey Crayon, Gent." is what its title implies, a collection of short, suggestive outlines of narration and incident struck off with the fidelity to nature and certainty of touch which belong to an accomplished artist. A few masterly strokes reveal much more than themselves and intimate possibilities far beyond the limited range which the author allowed himself. For example, everybody knows how Rip Van Winkle has been expanded by the dramatization to which Joseph Jefferson has given a masterly interpretation, and yet it is a dull imagination which has not seen the vagabond Rip, his dog and gun and tattered spouse and what was left of these after a 20 years' nap as clearly portrayed in suggestive lines of Irving. "He looked round for his gun, but in place of the clean, well oiled fowling piece he found an old firelock lying by him, the barrel incrustured with rust, the lock falling off and the stock worm eaten. He shook his head, shouldered the rusty gun and turned his steps homeward. He had now entered the skirts of the village. A troop of strange children ran at his heels, hooting after him and pointing at his gray beard. The dogs, too, not one of which he recognized for an old acquaintance, barked at him as he passed. Strange names were over the doors, strange faces at the windows—everything was strange." This is a portrayal to whose realism little can be added by brush or the living picture. It may be superbly represented, but it was all there before the ordinary reader, set in simple words, but always the right ones in the right place. "It was with some difficulty that he found the way to his own house, which he approached with silent awe, expecting every moment to hear the shrill voice of Dame Van Winkle. He found the house gone to decay, the roof fallen in, the windows shattered and the doors off the hinges. A half starved dog that looked like a wolf was skulking about it. Rip called him by name, but the cur snarled, showed his teeth and passed on. "My very dog," sighed poor Rip, "has forgotten me!" This seems simple and easy to do. The reader thinks that it is the very way he himself should have described the old fellow if he had seen him. To test the matter, let the habit of Franklin be imitated. Read the story once more and rewrite it; then compare revisions. After this the greater achievement remains of inventing or, if it was an adaptation of a German legend, of adapting the character to the drowsy atmosphere of the Catskills.

The genius which produced this, the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow," and 30 other sketches was instantly recognized in England. Walter Scott's quick appreciation and generous assistance brought the new author into pleasant and profitable relations with the chief publishers of London, and after Scott, Byron and Murray led there was nothing that did not follow. An American had found his place in the fraternity of letters and without batting a jot of his patriotism or sparing the truth in speaking of English prejudices, established himself for five years in the literary metropolis, where he could best do his work and find a market for it.

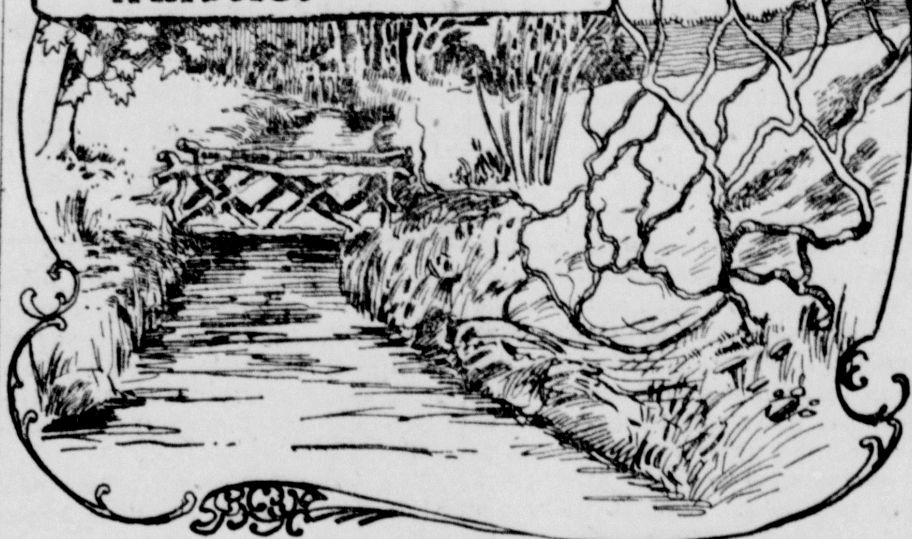

Irving, however, was coming to be a cosmopolite. England did not keep him too long. By 1820 he is in Paris hobnobbing with Thomas Moore, following up the theaters, catching notes of applause from across the channel, then going back to win an English triumph on English soil in his "Bracebridge Hall."

No native could have pictured the life of a country squire more to the satisfaction of all England. There was much in it with which the author himself had sympathy, as well as with the people he describes. As if in half apology to Americans he says, "I can never forget that this is my fatherland, and yet the circumstances under which I have viewed it have been by no means such as were calculated to produce favorable impressions." He then remarks that close observation will often change opinions, hastily formed, of a national character which shows its rough side first. Special mention is made of the reception accorded to the essay in "The Sketch-Book" on literary feuds between England and America and the "generous sympathy in every English bosom toward a solitary individual lifting up his voice in a strange land to vindicate the character of his nation."

This indeed is the eminence which Irving occupies, higher than that of being our first man of letters in the order of time. He was a peacemaker in an age of misunderstanding, jealousy and hostility. The ill feeling consequent upon two wars had not wholly subsided. In letters there was independent aspiration on one side, complacent superciliousness and sharp censoriousness on the other. In this very year Sydney Smith contemptuously asked, "Who ever reads an American book?" The one man who was able to reply to the taunt could do it in his "English Writers on America." A few sentences will show the large and generous spirit in which this was done. After observing that impressions of this country had been gained from the worst kind of travelers he remarks that the prosperity founded upon political liberty and the general diffusion of knowledge cannot be overlooked; that it is of more consequence to England than to us that justice be done and resentment allayed; that, "possessing the fountain head whence the literature of the language flows, it is in her power to make it the medium of amiable and magnanimous feeling, a stream where the two nations might meet together and drink in peace and kindness." And to Americans he said: "Let it be the pride of our writers, discarding all feelings of irritation, and disdaining to retaliate the illiberality of British authors, to speak of the English nation without prejudice and with determined candor. While they rebuke the indiscriminating bigotry with which some of our countrymen admire and imitate everything English because it is English, let them frankly point out what is really worthy of approbation." The entire essay shows Irving in the character of a broad minded, fearless daysman between the two countries in a sphere more important than diplomacy. "The mere contests of the sword," he says, "are temporary, but the slanders of the pen pierce to the heart. They rankle longest in the noblest spirit; they dwell ever present in the mind. Trace hostilities to their cause and they will be found to originate in the mischievous effusions of mercenary writers who concoct and circulate the venom that is to inflame the generous and the brave."

Of Irving's later and more pretentious labors a corresponding amount might be said. They were the result of a wish, that came with advancing years, to do more monumental work. After the "Tales of a Traveller" had

very much,
Which made poor Simon whistle.

FIND SIMPLE SIMON.

been thrown off as in his opinion the climax of his lighter diversions, for writing was no task when the mood seized him, he then entered upon the most prolific period of his career at the age of 46. The year 1826 found him at Madrid to begin his "Life of Columbus." This occupied two pleasant years and was succeeded by the "Companions" and this by the "Conquest of Granada" and "The Alhambra" before 1832, when he returned to America after a 17 years' residence in Europe. These larger achievements brought him academic honors from Oxford and the medal of the Loyal Society of Literature, with no end of applause abroad and at home. Then, after ten years of light writing about this and that, tours, recollections, legends and biographies, came the "crowning honor of his life" in the mission to Spain, to be signalized by his crowning work, the "Life of Washington." With the last volume of this he may be said to have ended his days at the Sunnyside retreat on the banks of the river he loved and whose borders he had peopled with legendary beings recalled from the shadowy and dreamy years of the old Dutch dynasty.

FORECAST OF THE HOUSE.

Likely Will Give Most of the Time
This Week to Postoffice Matters.

Washington, March 3.—The house of representatives likely will give most of its time during the present week to postal affairs, beginning today with the bill placing the rural free delivery system on the contract basis, and following later with the postoffice appropriation bill. The rural free delivery measure has aroused much controversy and there promises to be an active debate, with considerable doubt as to the passage of the bill. It was the original plan to make the change in the rural delivery system a feature of the postoffice appropriation bill, but as this would have necessitated a special rule the proposition was brought forward in a special bill.

It is expected that debate on the bill, which is to have the right of way until disposed of, will take about two days. The postoffice appropriation bill contains items relating to subsidy for fast mail, which are usually fruitful of much discussion. It is expected that the appropriation bill will occupy all the latter part of the week, although next Friday is set aside for war claims.

COMPREHENSIVE TAX

PETITION FILED IN COURT.

Cleveland, March 3.—A petition of the most comprehensive type and calculated to search every statute on the law books of Ohio, having any relation to the methods of taxing real estate, was filed in the United States circuit court. Incident to it was the issuing of an order by Judge Wing requiring County Treasurer Lanier

TWIN TROUBLES

They Are Often Together These Days.
They Work Havoc All over
the Country and in East
Liverpool.

Weak, nervous, the digestion out of order. That is what ails a host of people. It comes about in this way. First from overwork or other causes, the nerves are burdened beyond endurance, nerve waste is not replaced, nerve force is weakened. Then the stomach loses its nerve controlling power, and indigestion follows with falling strength. When first Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills came to East Liverpool, people could hardly believe that this great medicine should remove these troubles. Now it is an accepted fact because of its cure of very stubborn cases no other medicine would influence. Mrs. Margaret Tracy, of No. 178 Seventh street, East Liverpool, O. says: "One of my family was very nervous—subject to nervous spells—weak and irritable—could not sleep and the digestion was very poor. I asked the invalid to take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. The result was splendid. The medicine built her up, enriched the blood, made the nerves strong, gave restful sleep and so strengthened the stomach that digestion is perfect. The old time languid, played out feeling has given place to one of strength and energy, and as a result we are more than pleased with the medicine."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

Probably Fatal Election Riot.

Hamilton O., March 3.—An election riot occurred at Middleton, this county, Saturday afternoon. The count had been completed and the result given out, when an attempt was made to break into the election room. George Lafayette, a well-known politician and a former attaché of the John Robinson circus, was shot in the abdomen by Police Officer Henry Lawrence, and is thought to be fatally injured.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. VOLUNTARY GIFTS

Of Money to Campaign Funds,
by the Employes of the Government,

ALL RIGHT, WRITES FOULKE.

But Civil Service Commissioner, Says
the Commission Objects to Coercion
of Employes—Letters Written to Philadelphians.

Washington, March 3.—The attitude of the civil service commission toward the political activity of government employes has been defined in letters Commissioner Foulke has sent to Postmaster McMichael and R. Francis Wood, both of Philadelphia. In his letter to Mr. Wood, the substance of which also is stated in the letter to the postmaster, Mr. Foulke says:

"We object to certain solicitations for contributions, made by those in authority, because they are, in effect, coercing the political action of employes; but would it not also be coercing their political action to tell them that they should not contribute and that they must take no part whatever in a campaign? For myself, I have in years past always given a modest contribution for political purposes, and I shall not cease to do so in the future because I hold office; but I do not intend to give any more or less on that account, and I do not want my example to be construed as an intimation to any employe of this office that he is to give or not to give, or that he is not as free to give to the Democratic fund as he is to the Republican fund, or that he may not as freely give to the faction opposed to me in my own party as to the faction not opposed to me, if he so desires."

Voluntary Contributions All Right.

"As to campaign contributions, it seems to me that the purpose of the law is to see that they are really voluntary and not actually or impliedly coerced; and as to political action and activity, it seems to me the purpose of the law is that a man should be free to do what he likes in office as well as out of it, with the limitation that it must not interfere with his official duties nor in any other way bring scandal upon or impair the efficiency of the branch of the service to which he belongs. In the latter particular any attack made upon that service, or upon the administration of which it would form a part, would necessarily be in derogation of sound discipline. We who are strong believers in the merit system should not take so extreme a view that it could not be sustained in principle and would not be justified by public opinion."

Probable Work of Senate.

Washington, March 3.—In accordance with Saturday's decision the senate will take up the ship subsidy bill today and it will continue to hold its place as the unfinished business until disposed of. There is, however, no disposition for the present to press the matter to the exclusion of all other business, so that it probably will be laid aside temporarily at different times to permit the consideration of other matters, including Senator Hoar's bill for the protection of the president against assault. The legislative appropriation bill will be reported during the week, and will take precedence of the ship bill in its right if Senator Cullom, who will have it in charge, decides to ask the senate to take it up, as he probably will.

The subsidy bill will not be debated for so great a length of time as was the measure of the last congress. There will be a number of speeches on it, however, before it is allowed to go to a vote. Senator Frye, chairman of the committee on commerce, who will have the bill in charge, will explain the measure when it is taken up today. Senator Clay will address the senate from the Democratic point of view, and probably will be followed by Senators Turner, Vest, Mallory and other Democratic senators. Senator Turner has abandoned his announced intention of reviewing President Pro Tem Frye's ruling in the Tillman-McLaurin contempt proceeding and the present indication is that that incident will not receive any further immediate attention.

The Quickest Cough Eradicator.

This is the month that one takes cold so easily and quickly—secures that hacking cough, which is so persistently disagreeable as we know by personal experience. And we also know that the quickest eradicator of such cough has been Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and which has been our staunch standby for several years. This is no paid "puff," but merely a just recognition for an invariable remedy for for coughs, colds, and all lung affections, and like the editor, it has scores of other staunch friends in this town. THE CITY IN THE CRASP

the West End is estimated at not less than $2,500. This district is always inconvenienced during floods and precautions are taken before hand when high water is expected.

The street railway company was compelled to stop operating cars on Saturday afternoon from the Second street switch to the west end of Wellsville. This was stopped at 3:30 o'clock. Supt. Thomas Reed has stated the line would be placed in full operation as soon as water was off the tracks. From Saturday evening until late this afternoon cars were operated from the East End terminus to a point west of Mulberry street, and from the Second street switch to the West End switch. There are a number of poles down between this city and the East End, but these will be replaced as soon as the water is low enough to permit work to be done. All the cars that were in the barn at the power house were taken to a point east of the trestle, near Ralston Crossing, where they will remain indefinitely. The line car and several other passenger cars were taken to East Market street, where they were stored on the Calcutta road tracks.

The engines at the power house were not stopped, and the light machinery was operated as usual, both Saturday and Sunday nights. The high water, however, caused some little damage to the new foundation recently built at the power house for the new boiler, but this can be speedily repaired.

Orders were issued by the C. & P. Railroad company yesterday to agents along this part of the river division to sell no tickets below Toronto, as the tracks at many places between that place and Bellaire were under water. Below Toronto, the road was in fair shape, considering conditions. It is expected trains will be running to Bellaire by evening.

Foreman Timothy Hickey and Supt. Thomas Reed this morning commenced to clear away the debris from the street railway tracks near Thompson's pottery. In some places there was from 6 to 18 inches of mud on the tracks, and the clearing is slow work.

A force of 20 men are working on the road between Thompson's and the power house. The water will be off the tracks by evening, but the road-bed will have to be repaired before cars can be operated.

The Laughlin Pottery company yesterday purchased 18 pairs of gum boots, which were given to as many employees in order that rapid work could be done in cleaning the kiln sheds. In the rear glost kiln shed at this pottery the water was 5 1/2 feet deep, which was several feet above the benches.

No ware was lost in any of the river potteries, all this being moved to upper floors before the water entered their plants.

The fires were lighted in the boilers at the pump station at 4 o'clock this morning and soon afterward the large pumps were started. By tomorrow it is thought the water supply will be the same as usual. There was 6 feet and 1 inch of water in the pump station when the river was at its height, and this morning there was over 2 feet on the floor.

The high water caused a suspension of work at Walker, but today arrangements were being made to start the plant tomorrow.

Babb's island was completely submerged. The McCullom family, residing there, after taking their household goods to upper floors, came to the city in skiffs.

TWO, RENDERED DESTITUTE, CALLED ON CITY FOR AID.

All the Lowland of Wellsville Was Submerged And Great Damage Done.

The visitation of the flood in Wellsville resulted, not only in the loss of thousands of dollars to property owners, but rendered, for the time being, dozens of families homeless.

R. C. BOYD

Thanks His Friends And Announces Himself a Candidate for Next Year.

I desire to thank my friends for their support at the polls on Saturday. While I was not the successful candidate for commissioner, yet I am more than pleased with the vote I received.

At the earnest solicitation of many I wish now to announce that I will again be a candidate for the same office next spring and in advance kindly solicit the support of the Republican voters.

Yours respectfully,

R. G. BOYD.

Notice to the Public.

Having sold my hardware business to J. D. West and A. W. King, I wish to thank my friends and the public generally for the liberal patronage accorded me in my 23 years of business life in this city, and will be pleased to have you continue with the new firm, who are so well known in this city and vicinity that the names are sufficient recommendation. As I desire to close up my book accounts as early as possible, those who wish to call and settle will find myself or some one to represent me with my books at the old stand.
